DOUGLAS STRIKERS DEFY REOPENING

PLANS FIGHT ON FLOODS AND DUST

Seeks Governors' Help to Put Over Program Outlined by U. S.

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt requested all 48 states today to enact soil conservation laws to bulwark the federal fight against dust storms and floods.

"The nation that destroys its soil destroys itself," he said in identical letters to state governors.

With the letters went copies of a state soil conservation bill prepared by the agriculture department in cooperation with representatives of many states.

It provides for the organization of soil conservation districts to carry on erosion control projects, with the aid of federal funds, and for enactment of land-use regulations after they are approved by local referendum.

The suggested state laws would have no bearing on the federal soil conservation benefit payments, but their enactment would be necessary before states could receive any federal funds for conservation demonstration work.

Problem Complicated
"The problem is further complicated," he said, "by the fact that the failure to control erosion on some lands, particularly if such eroding lands are situated strategically at the head of valleys or watersheds, can cause a washing and blowing of soil onto other lands, and make the control of erosion anywhere in the valley or watershed all the more difficult."

To be dealt with adequately, he added, the "erodible land in every watershed must be brought under some form of control."

State legislation, he explained, is imperative to safeguard the federal program and to enable farmers to take the necessary cooperative action.

Most Land Affected
In a foreword to the suggested model state law, Secretary Wallace said about three-fourths of the nation's 619,000,000 acres of tilled or tillable land have been affected by erosion or are susceptible to it if not protected from wind and rain.

The Soil Conservation service, he said, is carrying on operations in 156 demonstration areas, and is planning the work of 450 civilian conservation corps camps, and conducting control studies at some 35 cooperative experimental stations and research projects.

RETRIAL ASKED BY TOWNSEND
WASHINGTON. (AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend asked today for a new trial on a charge of contempt of the house of representatives.

He was convicted of the charge Wednesday in federal district court. Sentence will not be passed until disposition of the request for retrial. Arguments on the request probably will be heard next Friday.

Townsend asserted, in his motion for reconstruction of the case, that Justice Peyton Gordon, who presided at the trial, had erred in not permitting the old age pension leader to present reasons why he walked out of a house committee. That walkout was the basis of the indictment for contempt returned against Townsend last December.

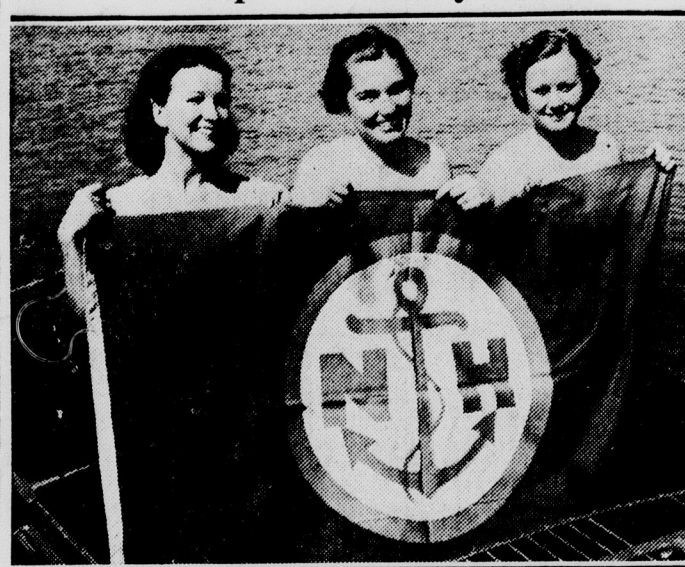

Townsend had been denied permission by the committee to read a prepared statement during an inquiry into the general subject of old age pensions.

Rats Eating Cats in Linan
HANGCHOW, China. (AP)—Things were in a terrible state in Linan village, just a few hours walk west of here, today. The rats were eating the cats and the inhabitants were too intimidated to do anything about it.

Linan long has been noted in eastern China for the precociousness of its rodent population, but even Linan never had anything like this before.

The amazed populace is mostly just standing around watching huge fountains of rats gang up on their arch enemies and do what every rat always wanted to do.

In Shape for Beauty Battle

Here are three reasons why Harry Welch, Newport-Balboa, refuses to worry about the outcome of the "Beauty Battle" being staged between Laguna, Huntington Beach and Newport-Balboa. And They'll Talk Until They Die

By BOB GUILD

He was leaning on the bar, one hand cupped around a whisky glass, the other pointing earnestly in the direction of the woman next to him.

"Undertakers?" He paused. "A undertaker, Mable, won't touch you for less than $75. They even got experts for dressing and such stuff. Ain't that so? You know it's so. And so the way I figure is, no undertakers for me. None. I favor cremation. Poof, and you're burned up."

That was No. 1. Another idea to blame on the boss, this was.

"What do people talk about?" he wondered, sending a fellow around to find out by listening. Cafes, corners, pool rooms all contributed.

They talk about undertakers and track teams and money in the bank and horse races. They also talk about women and jobs and politics and traffic conditions.

Down the line a way a bar functions without swinging relief rolls than was the case at this same time last year.

Several reasons were given for the big increase in number on the relief rolls. One was because there are not as many government work projects for workers now as there have been in the past. Another was that the rainy weather has kept many from work. Still another reason given was that the recent frost has thrown a large number out of work in Orange county who normally are employed in agricultural activities.

Two real estate deals involving about $32,500 were completed today.

One hundred seventy-nine acres of valuable farm land traded hands in the two transactions which now are completed and recorded.

In one of the deals Harry Dady acquired 109 acres of land at the southwest corner of Talbert road and Harbor boulevard, southwest of Santa Ana. The price reported in the transaction was $18,500. The farm land formerly was part of the old Santa Ana Gardens tract.

The other deal involved the sale of 70 acres of rich farming land to the Segerstrom brothers, prominent Orange county farmers. This tract, also formerly a part of the old Santa Ana Gardens tract, is located at the northeast corner of Talbert road and Harbor boulevard. The price reported paid for the land was $14,000.

It was said that Dady plans to grow beets and barley on his new land, while the Segerstrom brothers plan to raise beans on their farm property. Both purchasers plan to improve the property, the Segerstroms having already deep-plowed their property before planting it to beans.

The two deals were handled by W. F. Croddy, local real estate broker.

Santa Ana's biggest building year since 1931 was in prospect today.

Permits for the shortest month in the year far eclipsed those for January. The February total is $117,019.

Total for the first two months is $202,590, giving every indication that the year's total will exceed that of last year, when permits aggregated $1,164,175.

This month's figure was swelled by permits for construction of seven new homes, including a 15-room, $25,000 residence for John Scripps, Santa Ana Journal publisher.

Work also was started this month on the new $15,000 market building at Sycamore and Second streets, by the Sims Realty company and Contractor R. C. McMillan. The Owl Drug company began alterations on the store building it will occupy at Fourth and Main streets. They will cost $8,500.

New homes were started for A. H. Meyer, 1122 South Birch street, $4,000; W. R. Abrahamson, 1528 North Baker street, $4,000; A. R. Bennett, 502 East Myrtle street, $6,000; V. E. Todd, 2416 Valencia street, $3,000; E. Anling, 1815 Heliotrope drive, $13,000, and Jasper Farney, 2118 Greenleaf street, $5,000.

Indications that residence and apartment building in Santa Ana would spurt this year were given by the start of the chamber of commerce survey to determine residential needs in this area.

First reports of the committee, given the Santa Ana Realty board yesterday, indicated that two distinct shortages—in apartment dwellings and small homes for rental—have been noted.

Final reports of the committee will not be available for about a month, but recommendations calculated to spur the building industry are felt to be almost inevitable.

Bums Stage Fiesta Tonight To Pay Rent on College

CHICAGO. (AP)—Along the skidroad the word was passed today that McGinnis had been fixed and the stuffs can jig unrestrained tonight at the hobo's ball.

Translated, West Madison street's vagabondia heard the welcome report that the law would not interfere with the "Jungle Fiesta for Forgotten Men," a benefit for the Knowledge Box board of education, which is a hobo college and "cultural center for a hundred thousand homeless boes."

"McGinnis" is hoboemia's universal and collective name for coppers, flatfoots, bulls and clowns. In short, policemen.

Statistical Slim Brundage, prexy and dean of men, was authority for the claim McGinnis was "right" today.

Dark Art Witch Magic Casts Fear

By PAUL BODENHAMER

"Witch!" What brings this medieval whisper buzzing through a Mexican colony within a few blocks of the business center of Orange, a modern 1937 city?

Like marihuana, another native of Mexico, the belief in witchcraft grows widely in the native land, and its seeds take root wherever Mexicans gather.

"It's a superstition of ignorant people," said the Rev. Alfonso B. Escobosa, pastor of the Mexican Methodist Episcopal church on Cypress street, where residents believe one of their neighbor women is a witch.

There are people in Mexico who practice as witches. Usually they are women, and more like spiritualists.

SIX DEAD IN FARM BLAZE

DANFORTH, Mich. (AP)—Six persons were burned to death when fire spreading from an overheated stove destroyed the farm home of Nels Johnson here this morning. Two others suffered serious burns.

The dead were: Mrs. Nels Johnson, her three sons, Arthur, Robert and Arnold; a daughter, Ruth, and a granddaughter, Barbara Williams. The injured are a son, Roy, and another daughter, Evelyn.

Nels Johnson, Danforth dairy operator, was tending a sick cow in the barn near the home when the fire was discovered about 1:30 a. m. by Roy Johnson, who was sleeping beside the stove.

He attempted to awaken other members of the family, but failed and jumped from a window to safety.

Dr. C. T. Wilson Seriously Ill

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, 64, nationally known temperance worker, rallied from a serious illness at his home at Gresham today and attendants said his condition was "encouraging."

Dr. Wilson suffered a stroke of paralysis Thursday. His nurse said today he had regained his faculties and was fully conscious.

Dr. Wilson, born in Milton, Del., April 1872, founded the Methodist Episcopal church board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, and was active as its crusading secretary for more than a quarter of a century.

NO CLEWS TO FIEND ARE FOUND

Entire Nation Stirred By Kidnap - Murder As 3-Day Hunt Ends

LA PLATA, Argentina. (AP)—The unclothed body of baby Eugenio Peyrera Iraola, whose three-day kidnaping stirred Argentina as the Lindbergh case did the United States, was found today in the grime of a pigeon on the baronial estancia of his wealthy parents.

The little body, bearing a scalp wound and a cut on one leg, as discovered in an outlying part of the estate, about a mile and a half from the house.

Clothes Missing
The chubby arms were crossed over the chest. The clothing was not found.

An immediate examination was begun at the estancia, where the two-year-old baby lived with his parents and six brothers and sisters, to determine the exact cause of death.

It was believed he had been killed Thursday, the day after he was kidnaped.

A communique from provincial police, who have searched the rich resort countryside for three days for some trace of the child or his abductors, said merely the body had been found.

No Clews Told
It gave no theories as to who carried the boy away from the garden of the estancia, shortly after 7 o'clock last Wednesday evening, while the baby's mother left his side to greet her husband, a wealthy sportsman and horse fancier, upon his return from another of his ranches.

The announcement said nothing to indicate which, if any, of several suspects now held, was believed responsible for the crime.

But it was known the police, at first believing remnants of the kidnap band of the late "Pibe Cabeza" (Baby Face)—might be responsible, had inclined to the theory that abduction was the work of a moral outcast.

Peon Questioned
One wandering peon, who vanished from the estancia environs about the same time the baby disappeared, was plied anew with questions.

There were few clues. Most of them centered around the childish story of five-year-old Miguel, Eugenio's brother, who said he saw "a man" holding the baby in his arms a few minutes before he dropped from sight.

Police refused persistently to confirm reports of ransom negotiations.

ANOTHER CRASH BODY FOUND

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Another body, identified as that of Rodgers Meyer, 28, of Ridgewood, N. J., one of the 11 victims of an airplane crash Feb. 9, was recovered from the bay bottom today.

The body was the seventh recovered and officials of United Air Lines said dragging operations would continue until the other victims were located.

S. P. Mail Train Wrecked at Reno

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Railroad crews worked today to clear wreckage of the locomotive and five cars of a Southern Pacific mail train, derailed by a boulder in Palisade Canyon, 250 miles east of here. Four trainmen were reported recovering from minor injuries.

Southern Pacific officials said the locomotive struck the boulder yesterday and plunged from the track, carrying the five cars with it.

Death 'Accident'

CRASH VICTIM DIES TODAY

H. B. Man's Death Puts Traffic Death Total At 12 for Year

Traffic death today evened the score. The county's twelfth victim this year died this morning. Last year's record at this time was 12 deaths.

Lloyd Duprey, 45, Huntington Beach, died early today in St. Joseph's hospital of skull fracture, incurred Monday evening in a collision at Bushard road and the coast highway.

Duprey's car collided with an auto driven by Caine Farrell, 38, Los Angeles, injuring both drivers and Irene Unicom, 34, Long Beach, a passenger.

An inquest is pending at the Dixon mortuary, Huntington Beach, the coroner's office reported.

Mrs. Christiana Malcom of Laguna Beach was injured last night when her car collided at Euterpe and Coast boulevard with an auto driven by R. B. Rawlins. Mrs. Malcom was treated by a Laguna physician and taken to the Magallanes hospital in Long Beach.

Two drivers escaped injury last night in a collision at Commonwealth and Artesia streets, Buena Park. Autos driven by George McCracken, 18, Yorba Linda, and Augustin Garcia, 18, Carmelita, collided as Garcia stopped at a boulevard stop sign. McCracken claimed Garcia's car had no tail light.

Flood Refugees Flock Into State

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Earl Lee Kelly, director of the state department of public works, reported a check of incoming automobiles indicated California's population would be increased from 80,000 to 100,000 in the next 90 to 100 days by Middle-western flood refugees.

Who is he—this "Man of the Week?" He is a prominent Orange county citizen, selected by The Journal for a brief introduction to its huge reader audience; although he may be a man who (as the politicians say) needs no introduction. Turn to page 5 and meet this week's "Man of the Week."

PICKET WALL PLANNED AT FACTORY

Nearly Half of Jailed Sit-Downers Free on Own Recognition

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A Douglas Aircraft Corporation announcement that it would resume operations next week was challenged today by William Busick, union organizer, who said with the sit-down strikers out of jail they would throw a "concrete wall" about the huge plant.

Nearly half of the strikers who held possession of the plant for three days before their surrender Thursday to more than 300 well armed peace officers were released last night on their own recognition.

After personal interviews Superior Judge Charles W. Efrick set 150 men free and turned four back to jail for further inquiry as to whether they were Douglas employees. Bond was made by the families for four others and the remainder of the 342 arrested spent another night in jail. They were to be interviewed today.

Busick and Andrew Schmolder, organizer for the United Automobile Workers' aircraft division, had obtained release previously on $500 bonds each.

District Attorney Burton Fitts said prosecution of the sit-downers on charges of conspiracy to "use force and violence in entering and detaining" the Douglas plant, would be "concentrated" on the leaders, with lenience recommended for the others. Their preliminary hearing is set for Tuesday.

FLOOD RELIEF AT $10,903

Contributions from business groups, schools, clubs, and individuals this week swelled the flood relief fund of Santa Ana Red Cross chapter to $10,903.92.

Branch remittances during the week raised the San Juan Capistrano chapter total to $223.50; Garden Grove, $251.69; Newport Beach, $919.60; Midway City, $31.99.

Other contributions received this week included three dollars from Willard Junior High school; $25 from the Santa Ana Lions club; $25 from the Coca Cola Bottling company, and $146.82 from individuals.

The chapter corrected a former announcement in which a contribution from the women of the Trinity Lutheran church in Santa Ana was announced as $10.50. It should have been $20.50, it is stated.

Slayer of Wife, Daughter Doomed

WILMINGTON, N. C.—Lanky Edgar Leroy Smoak, 39, accused of slaying his two wives and 15-year-old daughter to collect $500 insurance policies, was under sentence of death today.

A jury deliberated less than an hour last night before convicting him of first degree murder for the poison slaying of his daughter Thelma. He was sentenced to die April 23.

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Jane Withers, 10, film star, was slightly injured today when the automobile in which she was riding with her mother collided with another car.

She was treated at the Hollywood receiving hospital for a contusion of the left eye sustained when her head was bumped against the windshield of her car.

MAYOR TELLS OF CUTTING TAX LOAD

S. A. Official Speaks at Annual Meeting of Tax Group

Four local men attended the annual session of the California Taxpayers' association in Los Angeles yesterday.

One of them, Mayor Fred C. Rowland of Santa Ana, appeared on the speaking program with Governor Merriam and other dignitaries. Mayor Rowland discussed the subject, "How a California City Reduced Expenditures." Others from here who attended were City Auditor Lloyd Banks, Executive Secretary R. D. Flaherty of the Farm bureau, and F. C. Latham, chairman of the Farm Bureau tax committee.

It was announced at the session that the state association will make a study of Orange county governmental and school budgets, along with those of other counties, during the ensuing year. The state will be divided into seven regions for the purposes of the research work.

Dr. Milbank Johnson, chairman of the board of directors of the association, said in a talk that the fundamental problem of reducing governmental expenditures is to lower tax rates.

The program outlined included functional consolidation of services of government wherever economies can be effected and a study of the background and fundamental structure of local government in California.

Street Fixers Move to Make Way for Shoppers

It's a swell thing to fix the city streets, but merchants think it shouldn't be done in the middle of a busy shopping morning. Not in the middle of the business district, anyway.

When several Fourth street merchants protested today that a city truck was blocking traffic in downtown Santa Ana while its crew filled in chuck holes in the pavement, The Journal called City Engineer J. L. McBride, to inquire about it.

"Their point is well taken," said McBride.

He sent word to the crew to transfer its attentions elsewhere, and to fix busy Fourth street some other morning, when there weren't so many shoppers abroad.

Russia Topic for Church Speaker

A Russia without unemployment, with complete equality for women, and with 200 races working together without hatred, was described last night by Dr. Clinton J. Taft in a lecture at the Unitarian church here.

"Russia is going ahead. She has a plan. She is going places," Dr. Taft, a former pastor, said. He said Russia deserves the sympathy and friendship of the United States.

Dr. Margaret D. Baker introduced the speaker.

Brazilian Asks About Santa Ana

MORE ABOUT 'WITCH'

uallists and fortune tellers "than witches," he continued. "I don't know of anyone practicing here."

He had heard some of the witch tales, but felt the belief was limited to the older generation. Yet some of those who told of their dream were in their early thirties.

"Oh, we know about witches," one woman told The Journal. And she illustrated with a tale from Riverside.

To Cast Spell

A girl and boy married without the boy's father's consent, and the father never was reconciled. A year after the marriage, she said, the father went to Mexico, taking with him a picture of the bride.

The assumption of the believers in witchcraft is that he took the picture to a witch, who cast a spell.

"Within three months she died in a way you wouldn't believe," our narrator told us. She described a disease which sounded like diphtheria.

"She would leap from her bed to the ceiling and stay there for five minutes without anyone holding her. I saw it with my own eyes. Bats and owls gathered at her window every night."

The witch was pulling her up with a spell.

Yet the man whose experience with the supposed witch is cited by many as evidence of her character, doesn't believe in witches. He even has visited in her home. It was he who was supposed to have seen her in men's clothes, on all fours, at the railroad track.

Since she has done some healing with herbs, it may be that she was gathering plants.

Taps On Window

As a boy, returning from a movie in Santa Ana about 11 p. m. he saw the "witch" and another woman at the tracks, he said.

"I didn't think anything about it at the time, but I woke up about 12 and heard a tapping at my window. I saw her looking in."

"I yelled, and my father came. It was bright moonlight, but we couldn't see anyone. It had rained a day or two before, but there weren't any tracks."

Then he gave an explanation not often heard in the Cypress street colony:

"It might have been my imagination."

TRIO TO PLAY FOR ANNUAL BMA MEET

Entertainment features of the annual meeting of the Business Men's association of Santa Ana were announced today by Rodney E. Bacon, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Services of the Ruth Armstrong instrumental trio have been secured to provide the dinner music for the event, to be held in the Green Cat cafe the evening of March 16.

The Golden State Saxophone quintet, appearing over the radio on the California Hour program, will entertain members of the association following the dinner. The committee is attempting to secure the services of a noted radio comedian for the featured speaker of the evening. This talk is being planned as a surprise feature of the annual program.

Because of the popularity of the event last year, when about 200 attended, a greater crowd than ever is expected for this year's annual meeting. The only business planned for the annual session is presentation of a brief annual report by Manager Phil M. Brown.

MORE ABOUT THEY ALL TALK

doors. There's a fellow with a pencil and statistics and a frown. He marks here, erases there, scratches his head. He marks again, mutters, grins and gulps his coffee. Mathematicians? Listen to him:

"The way I figure it is this, now. Vanderbilt sells those two nags, see, because they can't win for him. And this Hunt buys them figuring they can run. Then we gotta figure the trainer in the jockey and the distance they run already. The way I figure it, see, this Balkan Land is in there for the exercise. A guy's crazy to bet on him, so I take my two bucks and bet my cinch, and what happen? The cinch runs out, see, and Balkan Land comes in to place and pays 10 bucks. And so there."

At the corner a prominent attorney gets up on his feet, showing a prominent politician aside.

"Listen," he yells to a prominent rancher in the booth behind him. "The next time you drip water on my head I'm going to dump a plate of mashed potatoes in your ear."

At a service club luncheon a lawyer leans over the table in the midst of a debate on the supreme court.

About a Dog

"I got a dog," he says, "that's the smartest thing you ever saw. If he likes a thing and wants it, he's smart as a whip. If he does not like your idea he can be so dumb you'd think he'd starve to death. The other day he came up to me..."

Men talk in the morning, over their coffee cups. They swarm into drug stores and discuss the day's news, last night's radio programs, the courthouse situation, and business conditions.

A superior court judge grouches: "Aw, I put my name in the box every day, and do I ever win a free lunch? What do you think? Who wins the free lunch around here? Forgy! It's a conspiracy!"

Deep Mystery

"I don't know why it is. For a long time I use sugar and cream in my coffee, then one day for some reason or another I started leaving the sugar out. That went on for awhile, and now what do you think? I drink it black!"

Two women swing along the street with an earnest look in their eyes.

"I can do it myself," one of them says. "I can't see any reason why, if the worst comes to the worst, I can't do it myself. I send it all out now and besides costing more it gets worn out sooner. Of course it ruins the 'do' on my hands and I figure it's going to cost me something to fix myself up, but if Paul has to go down to work every day and come home tired, it's the least I can do, at least for awhile..."

"Aw, no," one man tells another on the corner. "I'll never buy another of that guy's cars if it's the last act of my life. Here I been driving it only 10,000 miles, it needs new brakes, new tires, an engine tune. I'd be money in by selling it."

We went into another cafe. At the counter a man stood talking on the phone.

"Honey," he was saying, "I'd give you a horse, but you wouldn't bet on it if I gave you one."

We drank our coffee, contribute our chatter, even as everyone else. Fifteen minutes later, as we are leaving the cafe, the same man is talking on the phone.

"Honey," he's saying, "you wouldn't bet on it anyway. You don't want me to give you a horse. I'd give you one, but you..."

People certainly do talk. What do you mean, everybody does? Not me. I go in and drink my coffee and get out and go to work. Of course, a little friendly discussion about horses, or politics, or business, or golf, or women or the weather... That's funny! We didn't hear a word about the weather!

Women Complain About Frank Fay Begging for Food

Frank Fay came to Santa Ana yesterday and immediately got into trouble with the police. He was picked up for questioning when housewives complained Fay was begging food from door to door.

When he told police he was just passing through to visit a friend in Whittier they sent him on his way.

This Frank Fay, however, was not the stage, radio and screen star recently divorced from Barbara Stanwyck. This was a 77-year-old transient.

MAKE SURVEY OF PARKING METERS

Auto parking meters operating in other cities will be checked for popularity and efficiency by a local chamber of commerce committee.

A study of the success of parking meters in other cities will be undertaken by a chamber committee on parking, safety and traffic if present plans materialize, it was learned today following an organization meeting of the committee late yesterday.

Headed by Fred McCandless, the committee met to discuss tentative plans for a comprehensive safety and parking program to be carried on during the year. The committee McCandless heads works under the general young men's business group of the chamber, headed by W. C. Cuddy.

The program of the safety and traffic committee will be discussed with the chamber directors Monday.

Members of the special safety and parking group suggested, it was learned, are Vic Walker, Wilfred Taylor, Albert Harvey, Clyde Hill, Wendell Finley, Dick Ewert, Newell Vandermast, Bob Harness, Oliver Stauffer, John Henderson, A. URGES $1320 SALARY FOR TEACHERS

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles on distinctive or unusual measures pending in the state legislature.)

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—A minimum salary of $1,320 annually for school teachers of California would be fixed in a bill introduced in the legislature by Senator Tickle, Carmel, while another measure would provide for their payment in 12 equal monthly installments.

By provision of another bill, by Senator Delan, Richmond, county school superintendents would be required to have a minimum requirement, at least four years teaching experience.

Permanent Teachers

Senator Schottky, Merced, is the author of a bill to provide for the employment of new teachers for terms of one year, re-employment a second time for a two year period and for a third time for three years. Re-employment of a teacher by a school district a fourth time would automatically classify the teacher as a permanent employee.

Another piece of legislation affecting the teacher is a bill by Assemblyman Patterson, King City, which would fix the maximum hours of employment in public service at six hours per day, five days a week. The proposed act would remain in effect until Aug. 1, 1939, unless terminated at an earlier date by the governor.

Teach Tolerance

Assemblyman Pelletier and Hawkins, Los Angeles, have before the legislature a bill to require all public officers and employees to exercise tolerance in all their dealings with the public and would require that instruction in tolerance be given in all schools and strictly enforced.

School board members would be prohibited under a bill by Assemblyman Donnelly, Turlock, of approving the employment of any person related to them within the third degree of consanguinity.

Assemblyman Tenney, Inglewood, is sponsoring a bill providing that any teacher that has held a certificate for seven years may secure a life diploma of "like grade."

FLAP JACKS TO BE DEVoured

WINTER, Wis. (AP)—The lowly flapjack flopped from the breakfast table to the banquet class today as grizzled lumberjacks and hungry boys began their bid for what was billed as the first national championship pancake eating contest.

Proponents of the stack technique, ready to match their style against the singleton system, were backing their claims heavily with side bets.

One group maintained the singleton system wasted too much time buttering and syruping. The other contended stackers always get more syrup on their chins and vests than outside their mouths.

That's an important point in the competition, for syrup and butter as well as cakes will figure in tonight's tournament, sponsored by the American Legion post. A record of the amounts used by each entry will be kept and all cakes, their size kept uniform through use of a standard batter cake ladle, will be weighed.

Farley Vacations At Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Big Jim Farley, head man among the nation's postmasters, yawned and stretched and gazed philosophically at Florida's pink flamingoes today. He was on vacation.

Here for a month of what he called complete rest, he has established himself and his family in a 15-room house overlooking the bay. He is conserving his energies for fishing.

Judge Ames Is Given Estate

Presiding Superior Judge H. G. Ames yesterday appeared briefly before Superior Judge G. K. Scovel and was awarded the $60,000 estate left by his mother, Mrs. Sarah A. Ames, who died April 28, 1935.

Judge Scovel signed a decree of distribution of the estate. Under the will, Judge Ames was the sole heir.

Film Comedian Wheeler Weds

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—A comedienne and a comedian, Sally Haines and Bert Wheeler, became man and wife yesterday after a marriage ceremony that was no comedy to either of them.

"I was so choked up, I could hardly say the words," Wheeler said.

The wedding was held at the home of Edward Sutherland, film director.

employing 3700 workers, and the Federal Ship Building and Dry Dock at Kearny, employing 4000.

Sheriff's deputies arrested two C. I. O. organizers in Waukegan, Ill. They were charged with conspiring to prevent execution of a court order writ for the arrest of sit-down strikers in the Fanteel Metallurgical corporation plants.

Sixty-one sit-downers were evicted yesterday in a tear gas attack. They mapped plans for a picket siege.

Salome Frog Has Debut In 'Skipper' Court Case

The Salome, Ariz., frog who was 14 years old and had never seen rain, and had to prime herself in order to spit, became a matter of superior court record yesterday.

Claude G. Putnam, famous Los Angeles artist and illustrator, presented the frog to Presiding Superior Judge H. G. Ames yesterday as Newport Harbor Publishing company won two victories over M. S. Robinson in controversy over publication of yachting magazines.

The frog, drawn by Putnam and created by the late Dick Wick Hall in his stories of "Salome, Arizona—Where She Danced," was introduced by Putnam with other drawings to back his contention that the Pacific Skipper magazine does not have exclusive claim to his work.

Judge Ames delivered an opinion in one suit, holding that Robinson did not have an interest in the Pacific Skipper, published by the Newport Harbor Publishing company.

Later he issued a partial injunction at the request of the publishing firm, prohibiting Robinson from using the subscription list of the Pacific Skipper for his new, competing magazine, Western Skipper.

He also ordered Robinson to discontinue use of the feature "Sailors Clothesline," which previously appeared in Pacific Skipper when Robinson was editor of that magazine.

Putnam, it was reported in court, has applied for copyrights on "Hall of Fame" and "Cappy Hinch Broadcasts," two features which went along with Robinson to the new publishing venture.

Further arguments were continued to March 5.

Allen thumbed a law book, then r'ared back and passed an order.

By virtue of a section of the probate code he declared the courtroom light insufficient for the transaction of business, and ordered Sheriff Logan Jackson to remedy the situation at once.

Sheriff Jackson did with six modernistic lighting fixtures of 500 candlepower each, which flood the courtroom with comfortable indirect light.

And supervisors or no supervisors, Treasurer T. E. Stephenson must pay the bill.

So, it was learned today, Judge

There's more than one way to skin a cat—or get lights installed in the superior court.

Early this week Superior Judge James L. Allen sent a request to the purchasing agent to install extra lights in his court so jurors could see and read the hundreds of documents filed in the Standard Oil-Southern California Drilling whipstock case.

Word came back that supervisors would have to give permission first.

So, it was learned today, Judge

Frankie and Johnny were sweethearts.

NRA TO TAKE FINAL BOW IN MARCH

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The NRA blue eagle will draw its last breath early next month when Miss Diana Rogovin cashes her final pay check.

She's the sole survivor of the huge staff which mushroomed to include 5300 employees at the height of National Recovery administration activities in Washington and dwindled just as rapidly when NRA was invalidated by the supreme court.

At its expiration last March, she was transferred to the division of industrial economics, set up under executive order of the President to complete the NRA study in conjunction with the committee of industrial analysis.

Since the first week in February, Miss Rogovin has been keeping the death watch of the NRA alone.

FENCE BARB CASE WILL BE TRIED

Milton Farney to Seek Damages for Injury At School

Suit of seven-year-old Milton Farney against the board of education for injuries assertedly sustained in a fall against a jagged fence at Spurgeon school last fall will be tried April 8 in Santa Ana justice court.

Justice Kenneth Morrison yesterday sustained a demurrer to the complaint, allowing 10 days for filing an amended complaint. However, by agreement between the attorneys, date for trial was set pending filing of the complaint.

The demurrer was upheld by Justice Morrison on grounds the original complaint did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. The complaint did not mention that a claim had been filed with the board and refused before the suit was started; but this allegation was said to be true and was to be incorporated in the new complaint.

Jack Rimel appeared as attorney for the plaintiff, Jasper Farney, who is suing as guardian of his son, acting in place of Harry C. Westover, who filed the original complaint. R. M. Crookshank represents the school board.

Communication will be handled through a set in the yacht "Brilliant," anchored at South Coast Boat works. Starting at 2 p. m. today, operators were in constant touch with the fleet new harbor representative. The race may last until late tomorrow or Monday morning, depending upon winds, Capt. Leavitt said.

Enforce Closing Time for Bars
When state liquor laws say establishments have to close at 2 a. m.—they'll close or else lose their licenses and be prosecuted. This warning was issued today by H. E. McKenzie of the local board office on receipt of a statement from Richard E. Collins, board member, and Tom Collins, administrator for this district. The board's stand on strict enforcement followed court controversies in several parts of the state over whether the 2 a. m. closing law would hold good.

ALBERTO SALVI QUINTET

Hailed as foremost master of the harp in the world, Alberto Salvi will bring with him an ensemble of instrumental artists when he appears in concert here next Thursday evening at the Santa Ana High school auditorium, under the auspices of the Musical Arts club of Santa Ana.

Salvi's greatest talent lies in his modernization of the harp, which he has brought to a higher plane of art, extracting unexpected tones from it and offering a new vista of its possibilities.

Full volume, ethereal pianissimo, and astounding variety have won for him a topmost position among the world's harpists and an enviable place among all musicians.

With him in his ensemble are Caroline Solfronk, flutist; Alexa Robert, violinist; Ann Hawryliw, violinist; and Goffredo Mazzari, violoncellist.

Blending the instruments into perfect harmony, the quintet is able to achieve unique effects in its ensemble presentations, and is arranging a program of variety and beauty for its Santa Ana appearance.

Orange County Watchtower

A Compendium of Opinion Written By Editors of Orange County Weekly Newspapers

WHAT ARE REVENUE BONDS?
What are revenue bonds? Recently there has been much discussion of such things in connection with municipal ownership of public utilities. Assemblyman Clyde Watson of Orange made a talk in this connection recently before the county peace officers, and State Sen. Harry Westover has been writing about it in his newspaper letters from Sacramento.

When it is looked into, it is found that the main argument for revenue bonds is an entirely misleading one. That main argument, as it is understood, is this: A revenue bond does not have to be paid except out of the revenues of the business into which the municipality or district or other political agency goes. Therefore, say the proponents, it is not really creating an additional general obligation bond.

But here is the joker! These bonds are proposed to be issued for water plants or light plants or other necessities. They must, in order to be salable, all contain the provision that the bondholders can appoint an agent to move in and run those plants and fix the rates on them, if the bonds and interest are not paid when due.

What does that mean? It simply means that the citizens of a community would be taxed for this obligation through rates which would be enforced by this agent for the proponents.

What's the difference between paying the debt by taxes or through something added on to a bill for a necessity? What's the advantage in that situation? Remember that the people could not close down and fail to operate a plant providing a necessity. It must go on, and the people are therefore under the same compulsion to pay that debt that they would be to pay any debt of the city. In the end, therefore, what the people have is a general obligation on all the people of the city when they vote these revenue bonds.

Stress Housing For Farm Labor

Considerable attention is being given housing for farm labor as a means of solving part of the difficulties which exist between agriculturists and farm workers.

Latest action on the matter came from the southern council of the California State Chamber of Commerce. The subject of farm labor was considered in detail by the council at a meeting this week in Los Angeles.

A recommendation was approved calling for adequate housing facilities to be provided by farm owners where crop conditions justify such action; or community camps, to be established by farm cooperatives, camp districts or federal agencies where crop conditions do not justify private construction.

A similar recommendation was made at the meeting this week of the agricultural economic council here.

Life insurance companies have been engaged over a long period in compiling statistical information on the subject of old age. They are now possessed with absolute proof that most men who attain old age are financial failures. Their files show that out of every 10 young men and women who at the age of 20 years start out in life with high hopes of arriving at financial success, only one will achieve it. The others who are still living at age 65 will be partially if not wholly dependent upon relatives or public charity for support. In other words each of us have only one chance in 10 of avoiding being the wards of charity.

Such final chapters as we have been writing into the lives of our people are unnecessary however. There is abundant wealth in the nation for every person to have a plenty. If it has not already been produced, then we have the fertility of soil and the abundance of raw materials out of which a sufficient supply can be quickly created.

A new day can be made to dawn in America. More than 20,000,000 of the nation's citizens are enlisted in the Townsend movement to bring about that new day. Thousands of new recruits are being added every day to the Townsend army. At the close of every Townsend club meeting in the nation, the Townsends take the pledge to make the economic reforms of the Townsend plan method succeed.

Cruikshank to Attend T. B. Meet

A. J. Cruikshank, Santa Ana, president of the California Tuberculosis association, will attend a meeting of the organization in San Francisco Wednesday, it was learned today.

The meeting has been called to discuss the bovine tuberculosis situation in California. Cruikshank said. While Orange county is in good shape, areas in central and northern California have a definite problem, he said.

BRILLIANT HANDICAP FIELD GOES TO POST

Column Left

Santa Ana's petition for withdrawal from the Coast Preparatory league has come during the midst of the high school's most dismal showing in 14 years of campaigning.

The Saints failed to win a football game last fall for the first time since joining their present alliance in 1923.

They lost four out of five basketball assignments. And they are destined to lose much more than they win in basketball and track.

Santa Ana, however, has not always been the door-mat. Competing against schools three and four times their own size, the Saints have compiled a winning percentage of .372. They can step out of the Coast league with satisfaction of knowing they've done right well in rivalry which such larger schools as Long Beach Poly and Woodrow Wilson, San Diego High, Alhambra and San Diego Herbert Hoover.

Football has been the only sport in which the Saints have held their own—with 42 victories against 32 defeats for a .568 rating. Their win percentage in basketball suffers in comparison—271. The local preps have won about every third time they have gone into basketball, track or tennis.

On behalf of the Coast league, Edward C. Taylor of San Diego High School has written Lynn H. Crawford, Santa Ana principal, expressing regret of the Saints' contemplated withdrawal. Says Taylor:

"The participation of your school in all sports has not only reflected credit upon your institution but has helped to keep our athletics on a fine, clean, sportsmanlike basis. . . . A warm welcome will be awaiting Santa Ana if conditions permit your school to resume competition with us in the future."

Here's a thumb-nail sketch of the Saints' record from 1923 to 1937:

Perry Tops Vines 6-3, 9-11, 6-4 to Even Net Series

SEATTLE. (AP)—Fred Perry defeated Ellsworth Vines, 6-3, 9-11, 6-4, here last night and evened at 12 matches each their transcontinental tennis series which started in New York.

In a preliminary match, George Lott, Chicago, defeated Bruce Barnes, Austin, Texas, 6-4, 6-3.

Vines' play was brilliant, but spotty, and Perry's steadier.

Baer Ignores Pastor Bout To Accept London Offers

NEW YORK. (AP)—Adding another worry to a heavyweight situation slowly growing daffy with its burdens, Maxie Baer planned today to head for Europe in spite of the latest decision of New York state's unpredictable athletic commissioners.

Although the commission reversed itself and granted the playboy boxer a boxing license and a sanction to meet Bob Pastor for Madison Square Garden, Baer apparently isn't having any.

Pasadena Invades Tustin for Basketball Playoff

PREP CHAMPS LURE CROWD TONIGHT

Huntington Beach Enters Class B Eliminations in 7:30 Preliminary

Tustin and Pasadena, colorful champions of the Orange and San Gabriel Valley leagues, respectively, will make their first stand in the C. I. F. basketball playoffs in Tustin's spacious gym at 8:45 tonight.

The evening's fireworks will begin in an attractive preliminary between the Class B champions of Huntington Beach and Pasadena at 7:30.

Admission to the double-header will be 25 cents, and a capacity crowd of approximately 1,000 fans is expected.

Making up in finesse what they lack in height, Ralph (Bill) Cole's Tilters will be decided threats to Pasadena, which will present a fast squad of rangy preps featuring three negroes.

Cole indicated today he would rely on his regular combination to play the entire game—Paul Francis and Vic Linker, forwards; Sam Francis, center; Larry Monroy and Walt Linker, guards. He will have three capable reserves, however, in Millard Foster, Arlyn Stone and Horace Stevens.

Tustin won the Orange league championship with successive 40-14 and 19-17 victories over Anaheim in a playoff. The second game was so close because Sam Francis, Tustin's high-scoring center, was sent to the showers early in the second half with four personals.

BRUINS TOPPLE BEARS, 37-33

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Another spectacular basketball battle of the Californians, won 37-33 by the Los Angeles Bruins, left them tied with the Berkeley Bears at the bottom of the southern division standings today.

Tonight the teams will return to Pan-Pacific auditorium to break the dubious deadlock in which each has won and lost eight games in Pacific Coast conference play.

Johnny Ball, Bruin center, went on a scoring rampage last night and collected 16 points, two more than the Bears' best sharp-shooter, Ray Balsey. But it was really a team dubstake all the way.

A substitute forward, "Coop" Cooper, pulled the U. C. L. A. squad out of a first half slump, shooting their first field goal in 12 minutes after the Bears had amassed a 10-3 lead.

Occidental Relays Draw 300; Dons Slate Interclass

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The 1937 track season breaks into full bloom here today with the annual Southern California College relays at Occidental.

Divided into two sections, the race for team honors was expected to feature Oxy and San Diego State among the colleges and Glendale and Fullerton in Jaycee ranks.

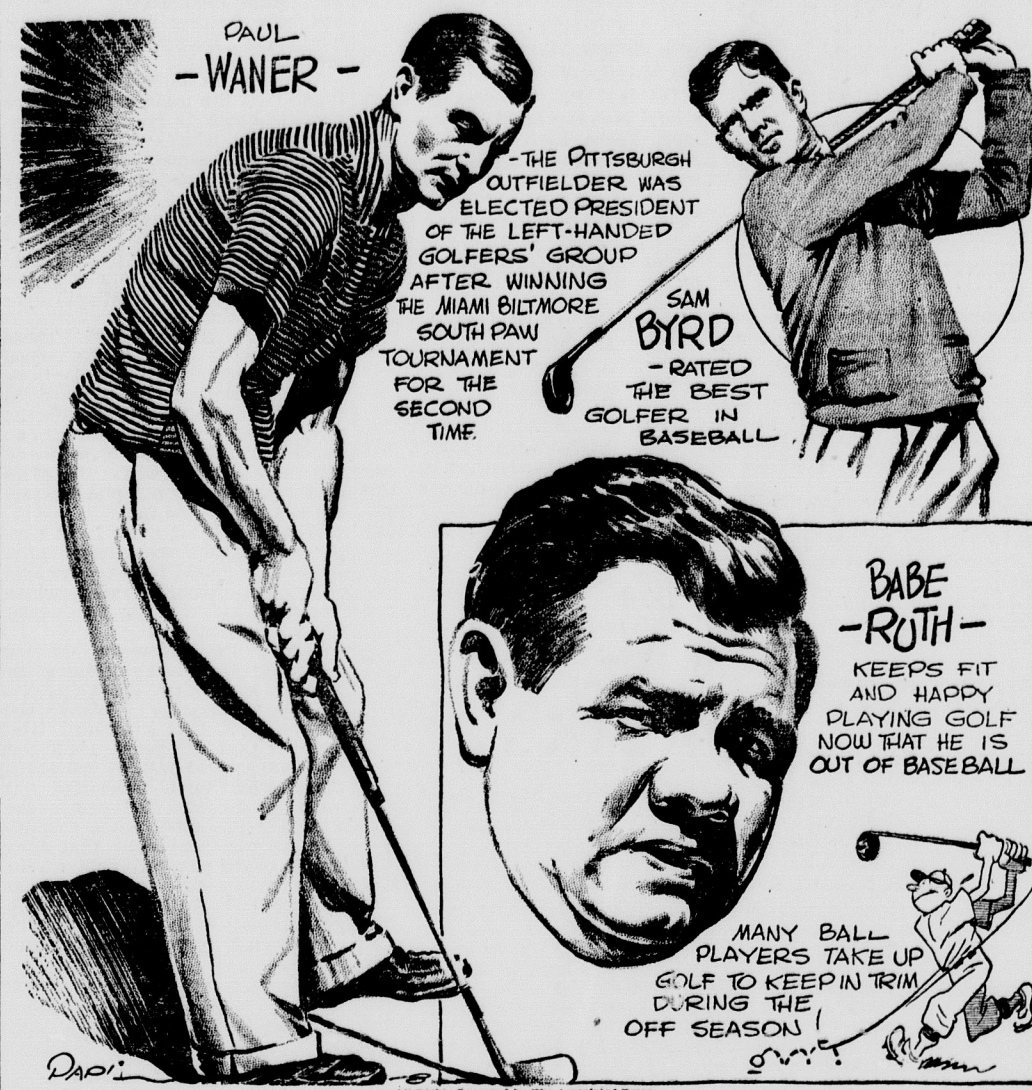

Some 300 entries were made for the four-hour program beginning at 1 p. m.

Santa Ana Jaycee, which has entered a 12-man squad in the Occidental relay carnival today, will complete its interclass meet on Poly field next Wednesday afternoon, with the 100-yard dash, 660-yard run, mile and a half, 120-yard high hurdles, 880-yard relay, pole vault and discus. Capt. Bill Greshner's sophomores are leading the freshmen, 45-27.

of fights in the British capital apparently proved too much of an inducement for the ex-heavyweight king. In spite of possible legal action by the Garden, his plan is to sail for England on the Berengaria next Wednesday.

Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden promoter, claims such an action on Baer's part would constitute a "runout" from the Pastor fight. Baer maintains, however, that the Garden's failure to obtain commission sanction of the Baer-Pastor go by Feb. 10, as was stipulated in their agreement, automatically cancels any obligation.

DALEY'S KNEE INJURED AT LONG BEACH

Leavitt (Squirrel) Daley, brilliant outfielder for the Anaheim Valencias, may be on the sidelines with the start of National Nightball league training.

The onetime Santa Ana fly-hawk, now employed in the Long Beach oil fields, suffered an injured right knee when struck by a pipe in an accident Wednesday, and it is probable the knee will be placed in a cast.

W. E. (Bill) Feister, owner of the Anaheim club, said today, "Unless a stiff knee develops, Daley may be ready to join us in early April. Right now he is on crutches, and the extent of the knee injury is unknown," Feister said.

Feister admitted he has opened negotiations for the services of Louie (The Great) Neva, Huntington Beach's released nightball pitcher, but indicated the outcome of the deal will not be known for a few days.

The Valencia management has been looking over Long Beach City league talent to inject new blood into Anaheim's 1937 lineup.

Tickets Placed on Sale for Detton-Strongbow Match

Tickets for Monday night's championship wrestling match at the Orange County Athletic club between Dean Detton, present titleholder, and Indian Jules Strongbow have gone on sale at Wei's cigar store. Telephone reservations may be made at the Highway 101 arena.

Strongbow recently lost to Detton, as did Vincent Lopez, although both bouts forced the champion to bear down.

In addition to the title bout, Pete Mehninger faces Rudy Skarda in a three-fall, 45-minute match; Bob Coleman tackles English Bill Slater, a newcomer; and Tiny Roebuck meets Abe Yourist.

Windjammer Race Closes Regatta

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Yachtsmen looked today to one more event, a 67-mile windjammer race around Santa Catalina island starting today noon, as the grand climax of the 11th annual midwinter sailing regatta.

A fleet of 20 yachts was expected to compete in the jaunt for the Mayor Frank Shaw trophy.

Defender is Tom Reed's schooner Paisano of the Pacific Writers Yacht club of Hollywood.

Favored, however, was Commodore W. L. Stewart, jr.'s flagship Santana of the Los Angeles Yacht club. The Santana recently broke a 23-year-old record to establish a time of 11 hours 54 minutes for the distance.

The windjammer fixture will be boat for boat.

Like most big league ball-players, Sammy Byrd, the former Cincinnati Red outfielder, doesn't get a chance to play much golf except during the off season. Yet he recently won the national baseball players' championship over the Bobby Jones course at Sarasota, Fla., with a 284—which happens to be exactly par.

Byrd is the top golfer among ball-players. Others are convinced he is too good for them. They want no part of his game. They voted to bar Byrd or any other who has collected money as a golf professional.

Sammy might have been one of the top-flight professional golfers; had he not chosen a baseball career. He is a natural golfer. Bobby Jones once paid him a compliment, nominating Sammy the best man off the tee he had ever seen. Jones is not given to tossing orchids unless they are earned.

Paul Waner, the Pittsburgh outfielder who won the '36 National league batting crown, is not a bad golfer except for addressing the ball from the wrong side. Paul recently won the Miami Biltmore left-handers' golf championship for the second time running, and was elected southpaw president.

Montanez Upsets Venturi, Earns Shot at Ambers

NEW YORK. (AP)—Pedro Montanez, the furious little rondell of the lightweight division, was back on Champion Lou Ambers' doorstep today.

The kid from Puerto Rico, ignored by the championship match-makers despite 22 straight victories, definitely earned a shot at the title last night by thrashing Enrico Venturi, the European lightweight champion, in one of the greatest bouts New York has seen in years.

Montanez, starting slowly, lost the first six rounds on the Associated Press score card, but dropped both bouts from then on gave a magnificent exhibition of two-handed punching. He claimed the unanimous decision by flooring the Italian again in the 15th.

INDIANS NEAR TITLE WITH 39-34 WIN

PALO ALTO. (AP)—Sure of at least a tie for the southern division coast conference basketball championship, Stanford's Indians will clash again tonight with Southern California's Trojans in hope of clinching the title.

Weakened by injuries, the Indians were hard pressed last night to win, 39 to 34.

Paced by Left Guard Dinty Moore, Stanford led, 25 to 18, after a wild first half, but U. S. C. soon closed the gap to 25-23. The Indians pulled away late in the game.

High scorer was Jerry Gracin, Southern California left forward, who hit the hoop from all angles for 18 points.

Stanford's sharpshooting forward, appeared tired after a week's lay-off because of a knee injury and tallied only six points, his lowest of the year.

The Indians won coast honors last season.

MILLS' CAGERS BOW, 48 TO 30

Bill Kolkhorst and Doug Wheeler sent 18 points through the ring at Loyola High last night. The two efforts were wasted for the Santa Ana Woolen Mills' cagers, who wilted under the classy attack of the Mantle club, 48 to 30.

The next start for the Santa Anans will be against Goodyear Tires here Tuesday night unless Manager Quentin Matzen receives a first-round assignment in the Southern California A. A. U. tournament for that night.

J. C. Quintet Makes Last Home Stand, Battling to Escape Cellar

San Bernardino	5	6	.454
Riverside	4	5	.444

Santa Ana	3	7	.300
Citrus	2	7	.222

Citrus and Santa Ana Junior colleges will stage a "cellar championship" game in Eastern conference basketball in the high school gymnasium on South Ross street at 8 o'clock tonight.

It will be the last home stand for Coach Blanchard Beatty's Dons, who can escape the cellar by clipping the wings of Al Clayes' Owls, who now rest on the extreme bottom of league standings.

Santa Ana defeated Citrus, 38 to 25, in a first-round game at Azusa, but Citrus has shown vast improvement since then. So have the Dons.

Beatty, who sends his charges against the Bengals at Riverside next Monday night in their 1937 finale, hopes to have his Dons at full strength tonight, with Kenneth Nissley and Harold (Chuck) Barrett at forward, Harry Stanley at center, Ken Marshall and Harold Eastham at guard.

If the Dons secure a safe lead, Beatty will run in all his available substitutes.

San Bernardino plays at Riverside and Pomona at Chaffey (Ontario) in other conference tests tonight. Fullerton's champions, drawing a bye, travel for a date with the San Diego Army and Navy academy.

Three former Santa Ana High school stars, members of last fall's Southern California freshman football squad, will report to Coach Howard Jones of the Trojan varsity at the Los Angeles Coliseum Monday afternoon.

They are Jim (Red) Crowther and Bob Reid, tackles; and Jack Robinson, center. They will be sophomores and varsity eligibles in September. Felix Basabe of Fullerton is another leading prospect up from the Trobades.

Following his plan of last year, Jones will concentrate on his new talent for the first two weeks. Drills are slated for three times a week—probably Monday, Tuesday and Thursday.

ROSEMONT IN FAVORITE'S POSITION

Chanceview Second; Sun Speeds Up Track For $100,000 Attraction

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
LOS ANGELES. (AP)—When dusk lays its mantle over this sanctuary of the thoroughbred today, clattering hoofs will have written into 1937 turf records the story of the world's richest race—the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap.

The third running of the one-mile and a quarter classic lured out 18 overnight entries. Whether all would start was problematical but the contenders, from an original list of 88 eligibles, simmered down to this field on handicap day.

Rosemont, Red Rain, Time Supply, Seabiscuit, Mr. Bones, Chaneyview, Indian Broom, Special Agent, Accolade, Gold Seeker, Star Shadow, Rushaway, Goldeneye, Boxthorn, Grand Manitou, Water Splash, Don Roberto and Sabin.

Fairly Good Footing
The field embraced solid, proven challengers for the most part with condition of the track as the principal worry of the owners, trainers and jockeys who hope to cut the biggest slice of turfdom's golden melon.

Rains earlier in the week gave way yesterday to sunshine and drying winds. Fair weather forecast for the race promised a racing strip of fairly good footing.

As an expected 50,000 fans, the largest in the history of the big race, started the trek to Santa Anita, Rosemont, star of the Foxcatcher farm, clung to the favoritism it has held since the future book ratings.

The great 5-year-old, coupled with his stable mate, Gold Seeker, held firm at odds of 2 to 1. Third in the 1936 handicap, Rosemont won new supporters to his cause a week ago. The son of The Porter and Garden Rose cornered a field numbering many handicap candidates in a mile and one-eighth gallop.

Rosemont drew top weight of 124 pounds for today's long grind, with Harry Richards in the saddle. In the shakeout for post position he picked up No. 17, far on the outside.

Chaneyview, purchased a few weeks ago by A. G. Vandenbark for $25,000 and noted for his liking to sloppy going, remained second choice favorite despite the break in the weather forecasting more dry footing. He was priced at 4 to 1, weighed at 109 and spotted in No. 2 position.

Quoted at 6 to 1 were C. S. Howard's flyer, Seabiscuit, and Major A. C. Taylor's entry, Special Agent and Indian Broom. Seabiscuit, which shared future book favoritism for a time with Rosemont, rated 114 pounds and drew the No. 3 starting spot. Special Agent was given an impost of 113 pounds and his stable mate, Indian Broom, 116, with the pair due to break from No. 9 and No. 6 stalls, respectively.

Time Supply, sturdy veteran of the F. A. Carraud stable, found backing at odds of 10 to 1 with followers reminded he finished second last year and third in the initial running of the handicap. Any kind of a track suits the big fellow.

A. A. Baroni, who led little Top Row into the winner's circle a year ago, staked his hopes on Star Shadow, nicely weighed at 110 and starting from No. 5. Star Shadow ran a close second to Rosemont last week. Chances of Red Rain, pride of the C. V. Whitney stable, were highly regarded in some quarters, following an impressive showing last Saturday with early odds of 20 to 1 especially attractive.

Longest odds offered were 50 to 1 on Don Roberto, one of the biggest horses now in training, and on Sabin, entry of E. F. Seagram. Don Roberto is owned by Mrs. W. P. Roth of San Francisco.

'LOVE IS NEWS' HEADS BILL OPENING TOMORROW AT BROADWAY

STAR TRIO IS CAST IN NEW COMEDY

Tyrone Power, Ameche and Loretta Young are Featured

The streamlined, modern comedy of a private love affair whose kisses splash all of the front pages and whose adventures sell thousands of extra editions, with Tyrone Power, Don Ameche and Loretta Young as the thrilling trio stepping out in a fast, spring-time romance, comes to the Broadway theater tomorrow as top half of a twin feature program.

"Love Is News" is a comedy that brings new laurels to its cast. Sensation-seeking newspapers and headlines—dodging heiresses provide the story for the film.

Because he has just tricked her into another front page story, heiress Loretta Young swears revenge on Power, ace reporter for a New York "gold-fish-in-a-bowl," with a little privacy as he allowed her, Loretta announces to the papers that she is engaged to Tyrone, and adds that she has presented him with a million dollars.

To force Miss Young to admit the hoax, he chases her out of the country, only to find himself in an adjoining cell when they are arrested for speeding. The story ascends to a stirring climax when the hoax becomes the private truth as the pair find themselves really in love. Don Ameche as the editor and Walter Catlett as a hard-boiled reporter particularly stand out. Slim Summerville, Jane Darwell, Dudley Digges and Stepin Fetchit head the rest of the cast.

The second feature has Jane Withers up to her old pranks and a few dozen new ones in "Holy Terror." Aided in this fun-fest by such players as Anthony Martin, Leah Ray and El Brendel, Jane gets into so much trouble, as the pet of the naval air base, that at times it seems her sailor pals will give up the ship. Jane runs into a nest of spys, is captured and escapes, breaking up a pair of separated lovers.

An added attraction, the latest issue of the "March of Time" will be shown, together with World news events.

'2 WISE MAIDS' ENDS TONIGHT

A new monument to an unsung heroine, the big hearted schoolmarm of the 1890's, stirs audiences' emotions at the Broadway theater where "Two Wise Maids" is screening. The picture, on the double bill with "Michael Strogoff," ends its local run tonight.

The co-stars in the film, Alison Skipworth and Polly Moran, are raised to supreme heights of acting by this story of school life on New York's East Side.

"Two Wise Maids" presents a problem never before filmed. It deals with the valiant efforts of two old-fashioned school teachers to train unruly youngsters into respected and happy citizens, and with their struggles to win from reluctant city fathers the playgrounds which will halt the sad procession of death and disaster in traffic-filled streets.

Little Marcia Mae Jones, Jackie Seall and Donald Haines are notable juvenile actors who deliver fine performances in featured roles. Luis Alberni is seen in a comedy role. Others cast are Donald Cook and Hope Manning.

"Michael Strogoff" from the pen of Jules Verne, brings a new personality to the screen in Anton Walbrook. This story of Russia in the days of the Tartar uprising has Walbrook in the role of a messenger for the czar. His stirring adventures while serving his country make for dramatic entertainment. Akim Tamiroff contributes a creditable characterization as the Tartar leader. Others cast include Elizabeth Allen, Margot Graham and Fay Bainter.

An "Our Gang" comedy, "Spooky Hooky" and world news events round out the program.

'Stolen Holiday' Shows Here Soon

A film of interest to feminine film fans is the early showing of "Stolen Holiday," coming to the West Coast a week from Sunday. Exposing that international racket known as Fashion, it should open the eyes of women and create an urge to see new creations prepared for their spring approval. Particularly so, considering Kay Francis is presenting a fashion show all her own. Ian Hunter, Claude Rains, Alison Skipworth and Alexander D'Arcy are in the cast.

"Stolen Holiday" is a romantic story of the rise of a lovely, but humble mannequin to the position of queen of fashion in Paris, dictating to the whole world what women should wear.

"Man of the People," a tense story of the district attorney's office of a large city, will be on the same program. The cast will include Joseph Calleia, Florence Rice, Thomas Mitchell, Ted Healey, Catherine Doucet and others.

This Trio in 'Love Is News'

Don Ameche, Tyrone Power and Loretta Young are pictured above in a scene from "Love Is News," coming to the Broadway tomorrow, together with Jane Withers in "The Holy Terror."

Comedians in 'College Holiday'

Garbed in "Grecian" sheets, Mary Boland and Jack Benny are pictured above in a scene from "College Holiday," which heads the bill opening Sunday at Walker's theater for a four-day engagement.

JOE E. BROWN COMING NEXT THURSDAY IN NEW COMEDY

Joe E. Brown is back! Or at least he will be here next Thursday on a double bill at the Broadway theater.

Astrology is made the goat in the latest Brown flicker, and Joe is at his best as the awkward youth who has a mania for putting the moon in charge of his destiny. His belief in the planets gives the comedian something different on the way of a story and he tackles the job with excellent results. His belief in the stars even leads him into the world's middleweight boxing championship when they create the impetus for him to knock out the titleholder.

It includes a fortune telling episode, during which he meets the girl in the case, Marian Marsh. The comic is supported by Fred Keating, Edgar Kennedy, Frank Jenks, Charles Judels and a dog, Corky.

On the same program will be seen the latest Columbia hit, "Women of Glamour," with Virginia Bruce and Melvyn Douglas in the starring roles.

"Women of Glamour" tells the story of Douglas as a wealthy young artist who becomes fed up on the sham and greed of his social set. He is engaged to marry a prominent socialite, who has posed unsuccessfully for his newest painting representing sacrifice. The painting lacks something, and Douglas, to show his contempt for those about him, destroys it at a party at which the canvass is unveiled.

He runs away and under the influence of too many cocktails, meets Virginia Bruce, a night club girl. The hero is attracted to her, she becomes his model and he starts again on his masterpiece. They fall in love, of course, and the complications that set in provide the stars with a picture blending comedy with pathos. Assisting are seen such players as Reginald Denny, Pert Kelton, Thurston Hall and Mary Forbes.

The Friday Afternoon

By DONALD BUTTON

Spring is like Elizabeth Elzdridge's definition of "collegiate." It happens where—

I like to think it is where shrubs burst forth with an ecstasy of bloom, and snowdrops frolic upon a green lawn. Where the mountain lilac displays its china-blue, and the lupines sway upon the breeze.

Somewhat, it's all very subtle. Transition from winter dormancy, growth, and summer is upon us. Change is truly the rhythm of spring.

It's a good time to play with moods. To range from reflection to gaiety, from poetic simplicity to the height of sophistication.

Then take this playing of moods into flower arrangements. Thursday night Clare Cronenwett will introduce you to it, should you be at Willard evening school.

Flowers to fit a mood—there's a way to meet spring!

Padua began her spring song Wednesday with "Fantasia Michoacana" from the customs of the Tarascan Indians in the province of Michoacan. Hence, the title.

Jack Campbell's photographs at the door are a pleasant surprise. Instantly recalling "Thunder Over Mexico," they all were taken within a 50-mile radius of Padua.

The play is Padua's spectacle of spectacles, but being Padua, there is a quiet dignity to the lovely settings and costumes. Another way to welcome spring!

Spring could, I think, be a better time for resolutions than the first cold days of January, since it marks such a brightening period.

If you've spring fever already (and who wouldn't like to) I'll hesitate to prescribe. If you ask, and are interested, go around to Jean Goodwin's and Arthur Ames' Thursday night sketching and painting class.

WALKER'S TO SHOW BENNY PICTURE

Headed by a cast of radio and screen comedians that guarantees plenty of humor, "College Holiday" opens Sunday at Walker's theater, heading a double bill due to show there four days.

"College Holiday" tells the story of a group of scatter-brained cultists who take over a hotel to test their theories about scientific mating. Heading the cultists are Mary Boland and Etienne Girardot, who mistake Jack Benny as a fellow-member when they discover him wearing a sheet, the sheriff having grabbed all his clothes.

Benny conceives the idea to import a group of collegians, ostensibly to serve the cult but actually to rally paying guests to the hotel which is on its last financial legs. His scheme works, and plenty of fun results when Gracie Allen is chosen by the cultists to pair off the young couples.

Others in the cast include George Burns, Martha Raye, Marshall Hunt, Eleanor Whitney, Johnny Downs and Ben Blue.

The other feature on the bill is "Racing Lady," featuring Ann Dvorak, Smith Ballew and Harry Carey. It is an exciting story of a girl, a fast horse and a man who played them both to win.

A colored cartoon and newsreel complete the program.

'BLACK LEGION' DUE THURSDAY

Taking the news subject hot in the minds of the public, and transforming it into a picture that everyone wants to see, Warner Bros. have made the sensational film, "The Black Legion," which comes to the West Coast theater next Thursday.

This melodrama, based on the outbreaks of the Michigan terror reign a short time ago, with Humphrey Bogart in the leading role, is a dramatic hit of the highest order.

Bogart is cast as a young auto mechanic, a decent fellow who gets into the clutches of the grafting and hatred-breeding secret society, and goes altogether bad through his mistaken loyalty to the order and its leaders. He goes so far as to kill his best friend, so far as to kill his best friend, so far as to kill his best friend, so far as to kill his best friend.

"Wings of the Morning," filmed in Technicolor, starring Henry Fonda and the new screen friend, Annabella, will be the second feature on the program.

It is a flaming romance of a lovely fugitive fleeing from strife-torn Spain. The spectacular changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace, home best friend, Derby ever run, with Jockey Steve Donohue riding, are a few of the highlights of the film.

U. S. Planning No More Borrowing

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau disclosed this week the treasury will not borrow additional money in its March 15 financing.

Beginning next week, however, the treasury chief said the government's weekly $50,000,000 bill issues would be doubled until $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 had been placed in the federal till.

A $300,000,000 issue of bills maturing March 15 will be paid off from tax revenues.

Thus, Morgenthau explained to his press conference, there would be no material change in the public debt as a result of the financing operation.

A warning? column, their charm is enhanced by the euphonious titles.

Grace Nicholson of Pasadena has the enthusiasm you ought to use in warding off spring fever. She simply can't contain it!

At Padua Wednesday for the premiere performance of "Fantasia Michoacana," Miss Nicholson advised "Early Easter—short spring!" A warning?

Her gallery in Pasadena is full of lovely things from the world over. I like to think her enthusiasm has brought them into such a charming grouping.

Stars in 'Last of Mrs. Cheyney'

Demand Brings Back 'State Fair'

Brought back by popular demand of theater fans, "State Fair" will head the bill opening Sunday at the States theater for an engagement of three days. Janet Gaynor and the late Will Rogers are pictured above in a scene from the unforgettable Fox hit.

MYSTIC OPENS GRACE MOORE IN AT WALKER'S NEW PICTURE

As a special attraction at Walker's theater, Alla Axiom, known as "The Mystic Marvel," will make an appearance on the stage during the coming week, beginning with performances today. Alla Axiom is a psychologist and mental wizard, and his feats leave his audiences amazed, it is reported.

The mystic answers questions put to him by anyone in the audience, concerning such things as health, business, love affairs, sale and purchase of property, legacies, marriage, speculation and what not. The question he answers most frequently is, "What will this year mean to me?"

WEST COAST 'STATE FAIR' RETURNS TO THE STATE

A brilliant cast headed by Joan Crawford, William Powell and Robert Montgomery appear in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," now screening at the West Coast theater on a double program with "Breezing Home."

"Mrs. Cheyney," from the Fred-eric Lonsdale play, has been advanced to the current minute in dialogue and atmosphere so that it is more than ever smart and sophisticated.

Miss Crawford portrays the charming American widow in London society with finesse, and William Powell is excellent as the butler who is really a crook. Robert Montgomery has the part of a young English lord who falls in love with the girl only to find her under suspicion of a jewel theft. However, when it is discovered the lady lays from this side of the Atlantic has bravely destroyed a love letter which might have created untold trouble, and that her butler is the thief, all is well.

The picture is recommended as one of the most entertaining and delightful films seen here in some time.

"Breezing Home" is a story of the race track with Santa Anita as the background. William Gargan, Binnie Barnes and Wendy Barrie are seen in the leading roles, with Alan Baxter in the part of the menace to romance and fortune.

A Paramount color classic, "Trees," and World news events complete the program.

Honor Mother
On Eightieth
Birthday

Mrs. J. A. Prescott and Mrs. Glenn S. Warner entertained at a pretty spring luncheon yesterday in the former's home on Newport Road, Tustin, honoring the 80th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Warner's mother, Mrs. James Skegg.

Cluny lace dishes and a silver bowl of white Roman hyacinth, yellow daffodils, and violets, with dainty flower candles combined with the blossoms, made a pretty birthday table.

Place of honor was accorded to Mrs. Skegg, and all of the places were marked with little gunpowder corsages. "Do you remember" quotations of things that happened 25 years ago told each of the guests where she was to sit at the table.

Those gathering for the delightful luncheon and the afternoon of reminiscing were Mrs. Andrew Jordan, Mrs. Anna Behle, and Mrs. John West, all of Long Beach, and all former residents of Iowa, where Mrs. Skegg once lived; Mrs. Earl Mills of Redlands and Miss Madge Ashley of Santa Ana, both house guests of Mrs. Prescott; Mrs. James Willis Rice of Tustin, and the guest of honor and two hostesses.

MAGNOLIA HAS INSTALLATION

Investing a simple little ceremony with a little dignity and beauty, Mrs. Dean Laub yesterday inducted a new corps of officers into the seats of Magnolia circle, Royal Neighbors of America.

As they took their oaths of loyalty, Miss Mary Gross led them to their respective chairs, after which Mrs. James Blackwell, the new president, presented Mrs. Laub with her past president's pin. Others installed were Mrs. Emrys Sweet, vice president; Mrs. John Zimmerman, secretary, and Mrs. A. Schlanman, treasurer.

Another important step was the selection of blue and gold to be the new colors of the circle. Mrs. J. C. Smith gave a report of the recent district meeting in Fullerton, and it was announced that Mrs. Charles Tibbets would be hostess to the group March 25.

Miss Mary Gross and Miss Gertrude Gross assisted the mother of the day, Mrs. Harry Gross, throughout the day. A covered dish luncheon at noon was also enjoyed at the Gross home, 905 West Washington street.

Mrs. Millie West, Mrs. C. H. Carney, Mrs. Warren Kimball, Mrs. John Henderson and Miss Clara Una were special guests.

HOSTESSES GIVE
STORK SHOWER

Mrs. Homer Neer of West Chestnut street and Mrs. Alex Lacy of La Habra were joint hostesses Thursday at a very lovely stork shower for Mrs. Horace Mobeley. Table appointments were in pale pink and blue, while jellies, stock and narcissus were used throughout the living rooms. Mrs. Calvin Shores and Mrs. Clinton Dozier were awarded high and low score prizes.

Just as everyone was ready for a dainty salad course to conclude the afternoon, a messenger appeared at the door, bringing a bathinette in pastel colors for the honoree from the assembled guests.

Guests included Mrs. Mobeley, Mrs. Hugh Trotter of Long Beach, Mrs. Calvin Shores, Mrs. Clinton Dozier, Mrs. Harry Harkelroad, and the two hostesses.

SUPPER TABLE
IS SET IN BLUE

Mrs. Ira Mercer entertained her club on Thursday evening at her home, 2403 Valencia street. After an evening of bridge, the hostess invited her guests to the dining room table, which was effectively set with blue pottery and blue Mexican glassware.

When the delicious salad course had been consumed, prizes were awarded to Mrs. Oscar Carothers, high, and Mrs. Harold Carnahan, low.

Guests were Mrs. Clifford Cole, Mrs. Raymond Marsile, Mrs. Willard Swarthout, Mrs. Oscar Carothers, Mrs. Harold Carnahan, Mrs. C. Patton, and Mrs. Ross Johnston, who assisted the hostess.

DESSERT SERVED TO BRIDGE CLUB

Jonquils, narcissi, and hyacinths made a colorful and fragrant background for a little bridge club entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. C. D. Hindley at 302 South Birch street.

Members who enjoyed the dainty dessert course and afternoon of contract were Mrs. Florence Smith, Miss Mina Smith, Mrs. Clarence Skiles, Mrs. C. E. Desery, Mrs. Lawrence Wakeham, Mrs. Will Armstrong, Mrs. E. T. Rogers, Miss Effie Douglas, Miss Margaret Orr, Miss Pauline Parsons, and two guests, Mrs. Sarah Douglas and her sister, Mrs. B. A. Moss of Milwaukee.

School Days
At County
Hospital

(Editor's Note: This is another of the series of articles on "Women in Unusual Occupations," which Dr. Mary E. Wright is preparing for The Journal. Others will follow.)

By DR. MARY E. WRIGHT
Bringing happiness to children whose lives hold little of the joy and fun of normal boys and girls is the work and the delight of Mrs. Mabel Dixon, whose arrival at the county hospital each morning at 7:30 o'clock is greeted by rows and rows of white-faced youngsters in the tubercular wards.

For Mrs. Dixon is "teacher" to these little patients, who welcome her and the new things she brings to them each day to help them forget their pain.

The teaching starts early in the morning, because then, after a night's rest, her pupils are at their best.

Individual Instruction
From bedside to bedside she goes, teaching reading, writing, arithmetic and spelling individually, to children ranging from five and one-half years to 14 years of age. Instruction must be changed at each bed and fitted to the age of the child.

At 9:30 o'clock, when these children start their morning rest, Mrs. Dixon changes her dress and goes to the pediatric wards post-operative cases and children who require building up after fevers or anemia are her pupils for two more hours. These children have the regular school schedule so that they may keep up with their classes. To some of the older ones, she teaches typing, shorthand, and in one case business law.

Her work there ends at 11:30 o'clock, when teacher and pupils have their lunch hour, and after luncheon she returns to the tubercular children, who are in four wards of the hospital. There are 20 of these patients, some with spinal, some hip, some glandular, and others pulmonary tuberculosis.

Occupational Work
This second period of instruction, from 12 to 1:30 p. m. is devoted to occupational work, to develop creative ideas among these young shut-ins, who are taught weaving on weaver frames, macramé cord knotting and embroidery.

Two mornings a week, they have story telling, and every Friday morning music appreciation. Rehabilitation work is given to eight children in the pediatric ward one hour in the afternoon.

All of Mrs. Dixon's pupils are from homes on relief or near relief, whose mothers are unable to give the care they require. Mrs. Dixon works under the county superintendent of schools and is on the county payroll. She is the only teacher doing this work in Orange county. Previously, she worked with seven other teachers among underprivileged children throughout the county, boys and girls who were unable to go among their active strenuous schoolmates and yet not sick enough for hospital care.

Her Training
To prepare herself for this special work, after graduation from Stanford university, she studied in Claremont colleges, and during vacations visited children's hospitals to study occupational therapy.

There are only five schools of such training in the United States. To work among these less fortunate children, Mrs. Dixon states, a teacher must have not only special training but also rugged health, and must radiate health and dress neatly in bright, washable frocks.

In addition to her daily work, Mrs. Dixon has been active in clubs and organizations of the county. In 1933, she was instrumental in the formation of the Women's Stanford club, of which she is a past president; and in 1936 she was president of the Business and Professional Women's club of Anaheim, where she resided before moving to Santa Ana.

In her daily visits to the hospital, Mrs. Dixon opens for these children mental roads to patience and happiness, which supplement the excellent physical care which is provided for them by the hospital.

SEWING CLUB
AT HAWLEY HOME

Mrs. Effie Hawley was hostess yesterday to the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary sewing club at her home, 320 East Chestnut street. She was assisted in her duties by Mrs. Lena Hansen and Mrs. Vera Cope.

Those sharing in the covered dish luncheon and all day sewing session, at which bedjackets and bath robes were made, were the Mesdames Irene Stewart, Juanita Cozad, Edna McCleary, Anna McCleary, Anna Planchon, Fay Rome, Louise Hubbard and the hostesses.

MODERN POETRY
Modern poetry service of Ebell club will meet at 3 p. m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. M. B. Wellington on Lemon Heights. Mrs. T. E. Stephenson will be in charge of the program.

Nine Girls
Rushed By Spinsters

Green and white checkered aprons are in store for several Santa Ana Junior college girls this semester, and with this in mind the Sisterhood of Spinsters entertained with an informal rushing party this week.

The affair was held at the home of Miss Bernice Skarke in Costa Mesa, and was without any set plan, the 28 Spinsters present preferring to mingle freely with their guests. After all sorts of impromptu games the hostess served ice cream and cake.

Rushes included the Misses Jo Butler, Gloria Kirchner, Miriam Powell, Aloin Miller, Virginia Wilson, Jean McBurney, Virginia Scott, Isa Grace Young, and Helen Warner.

LAS FELICITAS
PLAN "DREAM HOUSES"

"Dream houses" were the subject of discussion by members of Las Felicitas club Thursday afternoon when they gathered around the open fire in the attractive new home of Mrs. Thomas Harris on East Nineteenth street for several hours of chatting and sewing. The discussion started when one of the group began to tell what kind of a house she would build if she were building one, and others followed with their own dreams and plans, comparing notes on architecture, furnishings, location, and all those considerations which come to mind when one is going to build a home.

Dessert was served to the group as soon as they had gathered. Mrs. Harris seating the members at one large table which was centered around a bouquet of ranunculus and blue candles.

Those enjoying the hospitality of the Harris home were Mrs. Guy Penn, Mrs. Lewis Williams, Mrs. Willard Bassett, Mrs. Albert Raymond, Mrs. J. E. Braden, and the hostess.

D. U. V. TENT
IN BUSINESS SESSION

President and past presidents of the Sarah A. Rounds Tent No. 10, Daughters of Union Veterans, have received an invitation to the D. U. V. Memorial home, located at Sawdust on March 13, for the purpose of the invitation being made at the regular tent meeting Tuesday night.

Reports at the meeting stated that five American flags, one army and navy flag, and a California state flag had been loaned by the tent to the Valencia hall-room on the night of the military ball; that 44 calls had been made in the two weeks since the last meeting, and that the Sons and Daughters would have a pot-luck supper tonight at 6:30 in the M. W. A. hall. Mrs. Joe Moore, one of the members, was reported quite ill at St. Joseph's hospital.

Twenty members of the tent enjoyed a tea last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. I. R. Hendrie, 1110 West Washington.

NINE TABLES AT
SECTION PARTY

Five tables of auction and four tables of contract were in play at yesterday's benefit dessert bridge party sponsored by the ways and means section of the Santa Ana Woman's club.

The affair was held at the home of Mrs. H. D. McIlvain, 2348 Riverside drive. Artistic paper narcissi and pink, blue and white hyacinths decorated her living rooms, while the spring motif was further carried out with daffodils and snowdrops on the tables.

Pretty prizes were won by Mrs. Hal Noel at auction, and Mrs. Ida Carnahan at contract. Co-hostesses with Mrs. McIlvain were Mrs. G. N. Coon, Mrs. C. R. Walter and Mrs. Nannie Myers.

MRS. BAKER IS CLUB HOSTESS

Fragrant bowls of freesias were used to decorate the home of Mrs. Inez Baker on the Irvine ranch when she entertained the Martha Washington club at luncheon last Wednesday.

Her guests spent an enjoyable afternoon at sewing and chat after the delicious menu had been served. Members present were the Mesdames Mamie Zimmerman, Washington, Elizabeth Jernigan, Pauline Decker, Mae Curtis, Mae Jackson, Bess McDonald, Ruth Zabel, Millie West, Stella Henderson, Florence Summerville and Hattie Peters.

HARMONY BRIDGE CLUB
Harmony bridge club will meet at the Rossmore hotel for a 12:30 luncheon next Tuesday, with Mrs. Effie Neuschwanger and Mrs. Lillian Dawson as co-hostesses, later going to the Masonic temple for cards.

February Is Their Wedding Month

Anaheim is the new home of Mrs. Raymond Walker Todd, above, the former Dora Tedford, attractive blonde daughter of Mrs. T. F. Tedford of Santa Ana. The wedding rites were solemnized last Sunday at the Laguna Beach Community Presbyterian church, the bride wearing white angel skin lace over satin. Their honeymoon trip took them to San Francisco this week.

Daughter of former Santa Ana residents, Mrs. Clifford H. Hannah, above, was Miss Florence Stanley before her marriage last week in the Episcopal Church of the Messiah. Her lovely gown was of lace over ivory satin, and instead of a bouquet she carried a prayer book with shower of Finch roses. After a honeymoon, she and her new husband will make their home in Long Beach.

ROBINSON HOME
SCENE OF EBELL MEETING

Graceful fronds of golden acacia blooms were particularly complimentary to the lovely new home of Mrs. Eugene Robinson when she was hostess to the Thursday Evening Literary section of Ebell this week.

It was the first time the group had been entertained in the attractive two-story Monterey home on North Flower street, and Mrs. Robinson very graciously conducted several of her guests through it at the close of the evening, to their great delight.

After a brief business discussion, Mrs. Henry Williams, leader, turned the meeting over to Mrs. Lynn Crawford, who, as program chairman, introduced Mrs. John Tessman.

Her review of Ralph Bates' novel "The Olive Field," was concise and stimulating. She characterized it as far from being a "delightful novel," on the other hand, she declared its great strength and appeal now lay in its timeliness. It is a picture of the true background of Spanish life in modern days, and her audience felt at the conclusion of her splendid synopsis and criticism as if each one had been really familiarized with the present Spanish civilization.

Mrs. Stanley Reinhaus and Mrs. Robert White great delight. Hazel Lytle, Esther Rideout, Dorothy Forgy and Mary Safley, the hostesses, and three guests, Mrs. Robert Guild, Mrs. Richard Couden, a guest, assisted them in serving a refreshment course.

Those present were the Mesdames J. L. Bascom, E. F. Bruning, Mervyn Bryte, Lynn Crawford, W. S. Croddy, Horace Leonard, Lyke Mitchell, Harold Moorhead, Cassius Paul, Clifford Quisell, Kenneth Ranney, Ferris Scott, Milo Tedstrom, Henry Williams, Clarence Holmes, Earl Elson, Wendell Finley, Emrys White, John Cloyes, the Mesdames Hazel Lytle, Esther Rideout, Dorothy Forgy and Mary Safley, the hostesses, and three guests, Mrs. Robert Guild, Mrs. Richard Couden, and Mrs. Hoiles' sister, Miss Evelyn Scheiber.

GUILD GROUP HAS MEETING

The Irene Chambers chapter of the World Wide Guild of the First Baptist church was entertained this week by Mrs. Clara Tolffaro, whose home was the scene of the chapter's meeting.

The afternoon was spent in making quilt blocks for baby quilts, and Doris Luke read a paper on customs of Central American tribes, following the theme of the year's study.

Mrs. Tolffaro displayed many souvenirs and pictures sent from the mission field at Jorhat, Assam, and explained each in an interesting manner, announcing that Mr. Fred Chambers is to send a gift from Assam to decorate the Guild room.

The hostess served George Washington refreshments to Barbara Brown, Sally Clark, Margaret Lockett, Adele Reed, Elva Shoemaker, Lorraine Van Horn, Doris Luke and the leaders, Miss Clara Tolffaro and Mrs. C. A. Harp.

Chat Awhile
With Betty

By BETTY COX
Dreams do come true!
Ask Betty Joe Willis, and she will tell you they do. Betty Jo, you know, is one of our most talented young readers, and, deeply interested in material for readings, she had read much of the best poetry.

In the years of her reading, she has naturally chosen a few poets who are her ideals, and at the top she placed John V. A. Weaver, who writes about the middle classes and who has been ranked with Kipling.

Her dreams of some day meeting and talking to this great penman came true last Sunday when she drove over to Yucca Loma guest ranch near Victorville with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Willis, Jr., and found John Weaver another guest at the ranch.

The poet had forsaken poetry for the time and is now writing for "Hollywood," but he was delighted in Betty Jo's sincere interest in his poems which are still his first love, he told her.

Something particularly nice—Terry Stephenson dancing with his mother, and Rolla Hays, Jr. (Jerry) dancing with his—at the Military ball. And while on the subject, our nomination for the two most becomingly dressed women there would be Mrs. Stephenson for one—and the other, Mrs. Edwin McFadden. They both looked as if their dresses—the color, the design, the style, were just part of them.

Did you know that the great Homer Simmons thought Santa Ana a remarkably understanding and sympathetic audience? He had so much fun and pleasure at the after-noon party given by the Musical Arts society that instead of going back to Los Angeles at 1 a. m. he and a few other die-hards went down to the Burr Shafers and stayed until 4 a. m.—playing the piano, singing and talking.

HERE AND ABOUTS: Another wearer of the ring—the ring on that certain finger, of course—is Margaret Guard. Mrs. James Givens and Mrs. Glenn Tidball, receiving guests at the P. T. A. Founders' Day luncheon yesterday, were almost twins in their new spring suits of light grey. Virginia Anthony is admitting April 2 as the date for her coming wedding.

Mrs. Scheel Will Visit In England After 30 Years

The thrill of her imminent departure for England is heightened for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Scheel of 1836 Spurgeon street by the fact that she has been absent from her native land for nearly 30 years. It is with the greatest and most delightful anticipation therefore that she is finishing her preparation to entrain Monday for New York City and from there sail on the "White Cunard liner, "Sanaia" next week.

She will spend some time in London, and the rest in Warwickshire, her childhood home, and in Wales. Besides numerous relatives and friends she has two brothers and a sister whom she has not seen for many years. It is doubtful whether she will witness the actual Coronation in May, she said, but of course she will take part in the ceremonies that occur in every village throughout the realm.

One of her close friends and neighbors, Mrs. Walter Mars of 1905 Spurgeon street, honored her with a one o'clock luncheon yesterday afternoon as another of the several delightful affairs that have been given to fete her during the past weeks.

With the assistance of Mrs. Eugene Robinson, also a former neighbor on Spurgeon street, she had decorated her luncheon table with a tiny Santa Ana railway station, a miniature train, a ship at full steam—and finally, a tiny king and queen.

After the clever travel motif had been admired and the luncheon menu partaken of, the hostess presented Mrs. Scheel with a lovely fountain pen as a farewell gift from her assembled friends. This, with several other personal gifts, made a pleasant prelude to an afternoon of sewing and conversation.

Besides Mrs. Scheel and Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Mars had invited Mrs. Alice Scheel, Mrs. Leon Lauderbach, Mrs. William Gebb, Mrs. William Penn, Mrs. William Waddell, Mrs. E. P. Allen, Mrs. J. H. Nicholson, Mrs. E. M. Beasley, and Mrs. A. Kurt of Laguna Beach.

SPORT DANCE
PLANNED BY SIGMA THETAS

Sigma Theta sorority will be hostess at a sport dance during the Easter season, according to plans formulated at the business session Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Joe Irwin in Orange County park.

The dance is to be held at the Long Beach Municipal Country club and is open to the public, tickets being sold by the chapter members.

FIVE INITIATED

Formal initiation of candidates into the Young Ladies' Institute Thursday evening was an impressive ceremony, with the installing officers in long, colorful gowns, and lovely flowers everywhere.

Preceding the rites by which Jacqueline Montgomery, Hazel Coleman, Madeline Strain, Mrs. Laurence Braxton, and Elsie McCaffrey were accepted into the association, a formal banquet was served in the banquet room. Here, too, were beautiful flowers and lighted tapers.

Miss Dorothy Giesler, president, introduced several prominent guests of the evening, including the Rev. Father F. E. Weikmann, former chaplain, and now of San Diego; Hubertina Thelan of San Diego, Institute deputy; Mary Ellen Chambers, president of the Anaheim Institute, and delegations from both San Diego and Anaheim.

The turkey dinner was cooked and served by E. J. Vosskuhl, with the assistance of several husbands and sons of Y. L. I. members.

It was announced that Communion Sunday will be celebrated tomorrow at both 7 and 8:30 a. m. masses.

CHURCH WILL GIVE PLAY SUNDAY

Drama Will Show How Faith Aided Youth to Find Self

Young people of the First Presbyterian church will present a deeply interesting drama at tomorrow evening's services there, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland announced today.

"The Eternal Hills," a two-act drama by Elliott Field, has its setting in a church manse on the campus of Alpha college. A group of college students is deeply interested in the problem of straightening out a classmate who has strayed from the church and is in trouble. Through the faith his mother and classmates show in him, he regains his confidence and faith in himself and the church.

Those taking part in the play include Paul Christ, Valjean McCoy, Florence Wasson, Willard Schaeffer, Catherine Eklund, Leon Lauderbach, Karl Christ, Elton Gaebe, Bob Clark, Agnes McKinstry and Lois Mae Stockton. A general committee for stage effects includes Alice Clare McFarland, Mrs. Genevieve Hall, Betty Jane Moore and Royce Edson.

Calvary Church Services on Air

"By What Power?" and "No Ransom in Hell" are the topics of the sermons to be delivered by the Rev. Frank E. Lindgren, pastor of the Calvary church of Santa Ana, during the services tomorrow at 11 a. m. and at 7 p. m., respectively, in the auditorium of the Ebell club at 625 French street.

Both services will be broadcast from KVOE.

Sadie Wilson and Bobbie Adams will be in charge of the affair, which will be held at 1820 West Second street.

Lenten Meditations

"That thy benefit should not be as it were of necessity, but willingly." Read Philimon 10:14.

One of the wisest and best men I ever knew once said, at the end of a long life, "The older I grow the more I am impressed by the reticence of God." We are all puzzled by this baffling fact. God does not violently intervene, or too busily intermeddle in our lives. He seems to hold himself apart from the life of the world. We are left free; sometimes it must seem as though we were left too free. What is the meaning of his divine reticence?

The Christian answer lies somewhere in the area worked out by those generous words of Saint Paul to Philimon. He might have commanded or coerced his friend. He preferred not to do so, because he wished Philimon's "benefit"—goodness of character—to be a thing of free choice and not of compulsion. The reticence of God, which at first perplexes us, becomes eventually one of his most precious attributes. It is our chance to be spiritually mature.

Prayer: Teach us, O God, to trust Thy silence and to praise Thy presence, as we trust also Thy presence with us. When we hear our clear voice speaking to us from Thee, help us to be still and know that Thou art Lord, through Jesus Christ our God. Amen.

THORNE IN THE FLESH

By GLENN L. THORNE
"That Ye Love One Another"

Continuing our studies in the life of the Master, this week in John 12:12-13:38, we find our triumph in Passion week, almost the triumphal entry into Jerusalem is past. People are gathering for the great Passover feast which is to be the last Passover of the days of Jesus on earth, and among those gathering were certain Greeks, though it seems they came for more than to merely take part in the feast, for they sought out Philip saying, "Sir, we would see Jesus."

Let us pause here for a moment. These Greeks were evidently very interested in their desire to see the Master for they sought out and made known the request to Philip, one of His disciples. Philip, in turn, told Andrew, and together they led the way, and the Greeks were not disappointed. No one who has ever sought the Master and found Him, has ever been disappointed. Nor does anyone who really seeks Him and is determined to find Him, ever fail.

We are apt to find what we are looking for, in the same way that we reap what we sow. If we are looking for trouble, we'll find it. But if we are looking for things of beauty, or looking for peace, and will really seek after Him, we will succeed. But in passing, let us also note that the disciples here had a part in helping the Greeks find Jesus. Who can deny that was wonderful; economic problems would be at end; crime would be forgotten; greed would be forgotten—all if only those "Greeks" of today who do not know Him would wholeheartedly say, "We would see Jesus," and if those who are His disciples would but lead the way.

(So Jesus is found and we read most marvelous discourse from His lips. A discourse which is an advance answer of questions about things which are to come to pass. We read of a new law concerning life.)

Jesus answered them saying, "The hour is come that the Son of Man shall be glorified. Verily, verily I say unto you, except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it obdeth alone; but if it die it bringeth forth much fruit." Little did they realize the full meaning of these truths. The hour of the cross was fast approaching. The cross means death—but it leads to life. There is no escape from this death if there is to be life. Christ says that unless a grain of wheat die, be planted, germinate, it abideth alone. He came that we might have life, and to have it more abundantly... So He must die and make eternal life possible to all men, and while many will not believe—yet there will be "much fruit."

After this discourse of death producing life, He relates still another paradox. "He that loveth his life shall lose it," and vice versa. Jesus has been speaking of Himself, but this holds true for men. He that loveth his life shall lose it. We have all known those whose sole theme of life was "I love me." Matthew Henry said "Some men hug themselves to death." Pity the self-centered individual. His very life center is self. He exploits others for self-gratification, or personal gain. According to Jesus, he is to lose eternal life hereafter—but more than that, which he does not realize, he also loses real life here!

Now we find Jesus with the apostles, keeping the Passover feast. As already left the supper, gone on his mission of betrayal. Jesus knew this. Perhaps this may have been the reason for the greatest law of life (dealing with life here, and the hereafter) which He now gives to the remaining 11 apostles. He says, "A new commandment I give unto you 'That ye love one another.' " Was this the first time love had been commanded? No, it had been a command from the beginning (1 John 2:7). It was the second part of the Ten Commandments—and speaking of the Ten Commandments, it has been said that the rest of the Bible is a commentary on God's law—the Ten Commandments.

How then is this a "new" commandment? Well, Jesus summed the whole law of life into the one command "that ye love one another as I have loved you." Love—a summary of the Bible!—And as the great E. Stanley Jones said recently, "It Works!"

If given a chance in the hearts of men, think of the change it would make in your daily paper! Instead of reading headline stories of wars, of brutal murders, of strife and hatred, we would read of human benefactors and beautiful works done in His name. Instead of divorcees and foreclosures, we'd read of unexpected and happy results of the golden rule. We would no longer read "I will not be responsible..." but instead "I am anxious to be of help to someone..." and no strings attached.

The world is sick. It has tried the old law in an eye for an eye, of greed, of lust, of hate, and they have never worked, while the law of love never fails. There is no way to get rid of an enemy but to forgive him. You may do him wrong, but you will not be able to do him wrong if you forgive him. You may punish him in revenge, but he will not be subdued. But if you forgive him, he is your enemy no more. We've all heard the phrase "He who would have friends must show himself friendly." The world has tried the old program, and it has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. "How the world shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation—that we love Him, and one another—even as He has loved us."

Take This Tip—Make A Smart Knit!

PATTERN 5562

SPRING ENCHANTMENT!—A knitted sweater suit that will add diversity to your wardrobe. It's easy to knit, too, for plain skirt and sweater jacket are done mainly in stockinette stitch, with a simple waffle stitch for yoke and cuffs. Germanstitch yarn gives it body without weight and works up quickly. In pattern 5562 you will find complete instructions for making the sweater suit shown in sizes 16-18 and 38-40; an illustration of it and of all the stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Journal, Household Arts Dept., 117 E. Fifth St., Santa Ana. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

THE BUNGE FAMILY

As the savages drug you along, you thought of the ruby you got out of the burned temple.

I said to Morgan, "By jove, The ruby, I'll offer it to the chief in return for mercy, and..."

Morgan? From this bloody crew? Ah I know a bit about them.

Anything is worth a trial now.

Here goes, Oh I say, up ahead! The chief! Stop!

Look, The ruby, I'll jolly well give it up to you if... By jove, how oddly there beggars look at the stone.

I get it. The ruby was sacred, and...

Some of them raised their spears. Then the chief spoke. Go on, pliz. Fast.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Douglas 'Strikers'

THERE seems to be no great flood of public sympathy for those 341 Douglas Aircraft company sit-down strikers who were lodged in Los Angeles jail after police evacuated them from the Santa Monica plant of the firm.

Investigation reveals that the strikers acted suddenly, without giving the management time to consider their demands or a majority of fellow workers in the plant an opportunity to vote on what action should be taken.

This absence of preliminary formalities leading to honest, open negotiations indicates that they were more interested in starting a disturbance than they were in a just settlement of their difficulties.

Indeed, it appears that agitators and trouble makers got the upper hand and incited a step that smacks of irresponsible and senseless mischief. The flippant attitude of most of the men encourages this belief.

Perhaps the strikers had serious grievances. If so, there is a law—the Wagner act—under which the company must negotiate with representatives of a majority of the workers.

If that fails, then there is arbitration. And if arbitration fails, then there is the legal strike.

The strike, however, is purely a weapon of last resort—not to be undertaken without serious deliberation and sincere efforts to adjust difficulties in a peaceable, friendly way.

Boston judge gives woman 3118 years to pay off loan. At that, she'll probably pay up before Europe does.

Odd Idea About Child Labor

IN CALIFORNIA, a state which banned child labor in 1925, it is hard to understand some of the objections which are being raised to the amendment in the East.

This warning, for instance comes from Governor Hurley of Massachusetts:

Education might conceivably fall within the scope of their (Federal bureaucracy) since "labor" means any mental or physical exertion. The instruction of our youth could thus be taken from the family and state, where it is now properly lodged, and entrusted to an impersonal body in Washington, blind perchance to the inalienable rights of parents and to the constitutional rights of local governments. It is not too fantastic to visualize, as a result of such autocracy, compulsory military training, involuntary work on public projects, forced attendance in concentration camps, restriction of religious education and similar actualities inimical to the welfare of our youth and repugnant to the tradition of America.

The Massachusetts governor rants in this way about an amendment which simply says:

Congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit labor of all persons under 18 years of age.

It must be obvious to any fair-minded reader that the governor is carried away by his imagination. We have had the child labor law in California for 12 years, and nothing like his fears have been even remotely hinted.

Sensible people the nation over are demanding that children be taken out of the factories. This country should have a uniform, national ban on the abuse of childhood.

Anyway, State Secretary Jordan demonstrated that a fellow is never too old to elope with a widow.

A Medieval Superstition

A STRANGE story of sorcery and superstition comes to light in the Mexican colony at Orange where a woman has been accused by her neighbors of being a witch.

"Of course I can't prove it, but I know she's a witch," one excited elderly woman tells a Journal reporter investigating the weird case.

Accusations and evidence against the so-called witch—typified by the quotation above—are as ridiculous and unfounded as those which Cotton Mather and his fellow fanatics employed to secure the legal torture of 55 and execution of 20 men and women in New England in 1692.

Witchcraft is looked upon by most people of our time as a cruel and stupid superstition of the days when it was believed that a human being could obtain supernatural powers by compact with Satan.

But even today there still remain those among the ignorant and credulous, it seems, to whom it is an intense reality.

Thank God the era has past when an innocent man or woman could be dragged into court, accused of raising storms, afflicting others with disease, or changing into a dog or cat—and then strung up on a gallows to strangle to death.

Can it be said that the Douglas Aircraft sit-down strike occurred at the seat of the trouble?

Reform Without Domination

A SATISFACTORY method of retiring superannuated supreme court members may be contained in the Summers bill which, having passed congress, now awaits President Roosevelt's signature.

The bill provides that justices may retire voluntarily with full pay after reaching the age of 70; it does not force them to quit, however.

Judges whom age has enfeebled thus are furnished with an easy channel for retirement.

But judges who retain their keen mentality and capacity for hard work past the age of 70—and this might include Justices Hughes, Brandeis, Vandevanter, Sutherland, McReynolds and Butler—may stay on and continue to devote their experience and wisdom to the nation's judicial problems.

Under the original program requested by President Roosevelt, retirement of judges 70 and over would be mandatory, or else the executive could appoint an associate justice with full voting power.

In doing away with this mandatory and additional justice feature, the Summers bill apparently supplies a needed age reform without forcing the court into a situation where it would be under the thumb of the administration.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

Another flipperty-flopperty column. The easiest of all to turn out. Just an easy chair at the typewriter and let yourself go!

For instance this: Is it a violation of college life without Arline Judge? So many drowsy boys in the newspaper world today. The Lucius Beebe Era. They go out on their assignments as highlily enameled as the Wall Street brokers in their pre-crash gloss. A top hat cutaway crowd. And about the dressiest of the lot is Phil Simms.

In the elder days of journalism, journalists like Richard Watson Gilder, Lincoln Steffens and General Taylor of the Boston Globe, almost as a badge of their profession, boasted hair and glasses from which appended a broad ribbon. Save for Carl Van Doren, the type is extinct.

A diamond bright lady whose conversation had both the chill and sparkle of frost rims ran away with talk at the next table at Armando's last night. Salutes that zinged with a machine gun rat-a-tat-tat. Grandma would call it "shooting off her mouth." But today it's airy persiflage.

The movement burgeons to comfort the aged, the lonely and afflicted with literary soporifics. More books in the manner of "Life Begins at 40," "Wake up Alone and Like It!" and that recent salvo for neurosis, are on the fire. Whether it will cause the past-the-meridian bunch to begin patronizing bounding sprigs of the college campus I don't know.

Speaking of books: Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, who knows much about their origin and gallantry, observes that lawyers are rarely, if ever, heroes of novels. That's true also of ministers. He also lists as the five sickest fiction detectives, in order: C. Auguste Dupin, Sherlock Holmes, Monsieur LeCoe, Father Brown and Sergeant Cuff. Another observation of Dr. Rosenbach's is interesting. He regards many stories running in detective story magazines—and which so many jeer as trash—as fine as those of some of the classical fiction writers. He accepted peer of all detective writers is Wilkie Collins, yet to my notion he was incredibly tedious.

Skimming along, I have tried to recall what book the past five years absorbed me most. I think of "The Joy of Living" by Thorstein Bunde Veblen, a romance with a nymph du pays and their constant perip in Berlin. I turned to it during a wakeful stretch one summer morning at 4 to glance at the opening chapter and at 9 a. m. had reached the finale. In the street below had been a frightful joy riding accident bringing clanging ambulances and sirens firing sirens. The windows were open but I heard not a sound. That's holding a reader. Definitely!

Few spots are so enchantingly keyed to the study of that vague classification "human nature" as the second-rate theatrical hotel, the sort where women with shaggy white dogs sit on the stoop at night. Here hope has hit bottom and bounded up in the role of optimism. Patrons are last of the trouper— from the Bounding Flynn to Zozo, the ventriloquist. Not to call the other will they admit the professional road is dark. Every morning they go to the agencies buoyant with a fixation "Today is the day!" Perhaps an engagement at Music Hall or a London hall. They dine in dingy one-ated eatries and a few minutes later may—mirabile dictu—swing out of a classy cafe with toothpick adangle. Anything for a front.

But the stage has no copyright on "the front." Only this morning I talked by phone to a high born gentleman whose ancestors incidentally peddled peacock skins and half sold their breeches with leather, about a matter for publication. The connection was faulty and he finally said: "I will have the information typed and have my querry bring it to you!" Fawcety! Insiders in London are laying odds on three Sure Fire Bets: No. 1—Mrs. Simpson will never get her divorce. No. 2—she will never marry the Duke of Windsor. No. 3—The Duke will return to the throne. One bet is certain: The publicity has botched up the king business as never before. It's a mess.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's note: The famous brass ring, good for one free trip on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, is presented this week to Gardner Jackson, the man chiefly responsible for President Roosevelt's proposals of a new deal for tenant farmers.)

WASHINGTON. — When President Roosevelt sent his message to congress last week calling attention to the plight of the tenant farmer, it climaxed one of the most important behind-the-scenes controversies of the New Deal.

Center of that controversy is a young man, virtually unknown outside of Washington, who among his friends is called "The Champion of Lost Causes." He is Gardner Jackson, who probably more than any other individual was the indefatigable and beligerent instigator of the President's message.

Jackson has been a storm center of the New Deal ever since he joined it as a member of the AAA during the first lush days of the Roosevelt honeymoon. For him it was no honeymoon. He was supposed to protect the consumer, and he did it with such vigor that he got distasteful to the nerves of AAA officials much more interested in higher prices for the farmer.

The more he got on their nerves, the harder Jackson hit. Finally he was fired.

The issue on which he was fired was the protection of share-croppers—or tenant farmers—on the cotton plantations of the South. Jackson, and a little band of co-agitators within the AAA, claimed that plantation owners, in decreasing their share-croppers off the land, that the New Deal was making itinerant gypsies out of the poor farmers of the South.

BEARDED BORAH

Jackson is a peculiar person. He is a combination of charm, idealism, persistence, brass, and downright cussedness. He will rush into an impossible predicament without batting an eye. He will tell any so-called statesman he meets what he thinks of him.

Once at the home of the late Senator Burton, Jackson bearded William Edgar Borah, the lion of Idaho.

"Borah," he said, "I don't like you."

"What's the matter?" asked the astonished statesman.

"You're not sincere, Borah. You're not a go-through guy."

GOD-FATHER

A lot of the things Jackson has championed have led into blind alleys. But as far as they go, he goes with them. In the case of the share-croppers, he caused the AAA officials who ousted him far more trouble outside, than when he was under their roof.

He became the godfather, the chief financial angel of the Southern Tenant Farmers' union. This is not a large organization, but it made up for its size by its viciousness. Jackson supplied the magaphone.

Many strikes have been staged where more men were beaten, jailed or persecuted. But few have had the stage-managing that Gardner Jackson gave the share-croppers. When striking negroes were jailed in Arkansas when a preacher and a woman journalist were horse-whipped, when union organizers were run out of the strike area, he made the most of it every time.

Jackson made life miserable for Miss Perkins and Secretary Wallace. He raised unmitigated hell with Attorney General Cummings. He had the ear of Mrs. Roosevelt. He got "The March of Time" to film the strikers. He raised thousands of dollars to finance them. He got Harry Hopkins to feed them.

CONVERT WALLACE

Probably his best proselyting was with the man who once fired him, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. After their first row, Jackson and Wallace became close friends. Wallace became convinced of Jackson's sincerity, also realized that the plight of the share croppers badly needed remedying.

Jackson clinched his argument with Wallace by taking him through the California fruit-growing regions of Jonathan Garst, then through the South by Rex Tugwell.

Since then Wallace has been making speeches in which he frankly admits that the department of agriculture has spent all its time and money enriching only one-third of the farmers of the United States.

"As a result," Wallace says, "the top one-third of the farmers, most of whom were raised in good homes and who were given a head start in the world, are able to produce about five times as much per man as the bottom one-third of the farmers."

It is now time, Wallace also said, for the department of agriculture to do something about the "bottom farmers." And it was he, working in cooperation with a special committee, who worked out the President's recent proposals to congress.

WEALTHY FATHER

The paradox in Gardner Jackson is that he is an offshoot of the "economic royalists" denounced by the President. Jackson's father was a rugged individualist who cleaned up more than a million during the boom days in Colorado, built the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, probably was the biggest landowner in New Mexico and Colorado.

His son once was wealthy in his own right. But not today. He has given away most of his inheritance to share-croppers, the bonus army, Sacco and Vanzetti, Tom Mooney, the Spanish loyalists, and in picketing the NRA office of General Johnson when he fired the leader of a government workers' union.

Jackson's wife, who is the real rudder of his life, does much of her own work, and his four children can be quite sure that whatever they have in later life they will earn themselves. But they seem to be all the happier for it.

BLASTS THE COURT

To the Editor: The record of the supreme court shows that in many cases the court has interpreted the constitution so as to make it harmonize with its own mind, rather than for the real intention with which it was framed. The court's ruling, in many cases, shows a bias in favor of property rights rather than human rights.

For instance, in 1932 President Roosevelt offered the country a New Deal. The people elected him with an overwhelming majority. At the request of the President congress enacted laws to put the New Deal into effect. The court ruled that a number of these measures were unconstitutional and thus blocked the President's program to a great extent.

Again in 1936 Roosevelt asked for a second term and declared that he had just begun to "fight" to make the New Deal a perfect success. This time the people answered in the affirmative with the largest vote ever given a president in history. And this certainly indicates, or rather positively proves, that the people endorse the New Deal and oppose the decisions of the supreme court.

But the court acts as though it were a member of the family of gods and has a divine right to rule this nation. And if it was necessary for our ancestors to impeach Osirus, Malech, and Bel-Murdoc, and repudiate a thousand other imaginary gods, it is necessary for the people of this country to curb the power of the supreme court.

It might take years to amend the constitution so that it would meet present needs. By that time it would be too late to save our country from a revolution by force.

In view of these facts the logical thing for F. D. R. to do is to appoint progressively minded justices who will put human rights far above property rights.

Talk about "packing" the court. It is already "packed" with too many of the privileged few who feel, "The people be d—d." Don't call Roosevelt a dictator for doing the will of a large majority of the citizens of the U. S. A. W. H. C. Santa Ana.

EL PASO. — Juarez is in possession of Vasquezita rebels. Firing but one or two volleys, and meeting no resistance except scattering shots in reply to their first volley, the rebels marched into the town, captured the machine guns purchased to repel them, took charge of the municipal offices, customs house, barracks, jail, and other public buildings. The rebels made an assault at 10 o'clock sharp, entering the outskirts of the city from the northwest, firing as they entered, using rifles and one cannon.

DOG-GONE MYSTERY

My household is all agog with a mystery, and theories fairly stumble over one another. Our hound, vanished for two long weeks, has returned.

We stood it fairly well while he was gone. He broke us in gently by staying away a night or two at a time, then left on a journey that turned out to be almost epic.

I wouldn't advertise for him, arguing thusly: "If someone is holding him for ransom, they'll tire of the game in two or three weeks when no revenue comes their way. And the minute the dog is let loose for just a single minute he'll be heading for home like a streak."

Ever since he was a tiny ball of black-and-white wool, this particular hound has had the strongest kind of a homing instinct. He used to like to run, too. Neighbors would tell us of seeing him blocks or miles away from home on occasion, but he'd always turn in time to see what was in his grub dish at about the proper time.

But two weeks away! The whole family was indignant. That is, we were indignant between pells of worrying about him. A dog that has been a member of

Around and About Town
With C. F. SKIRVIN

The price of residence lots in Santa Ana 50 years ago differed somewhat from those of today, and decidedly so from the prices which prevailed during the boom days, as per evidence submitted by Charles Overshiner, who bought a lot Dec. 8, 1887, of B. J. Salisbury for $195. That was the way the check read almost 50 years ago, and still reads the same way today, because it has not been changed. The lot Charles bought was somewhere in the west part of town near Olive street. The check was issued on the First National bank.

Believe I rather work than go to jail. This is why I am opposed to this sit-down strike business. If you sit down you don't get any place, unless the law calls for you, and then you do not want to go where the law is taking you.

Either get a 1937 license plate or be arrested. That's the news coming from the Motor Vehicles department. It won't be long now before patrolmen will be calling all cars carrying 1936 credentials. You see, with a 1936 license plate you carry your own conviction. You supply the convicting evidence. You can't run your car without it, and you can run your car very much longer with it. Fact is you are between the law and a 1937 plate.

Postmaster Frank Harwood is home from San Francisco with a message from Dell Davenport, who is making good both in his political and journalistic affiliations. They seem to go together.

I was in a photograph gallery a few days ago when a patron came in who wanted a picture to go along with his naturalization papers. The photographer noticed a similarity between the picture the customer brought in and the kind the government puts numbers on. You know, the kind that run in the classified columns under the head of "Wanted." Say, all that doubt was removed when the photographer asked his customer to smile. Which goes to prove that a smile can do a lot for you even if you are not getting your picture. No charge for this service.

Now I think this boy has got something. He stops to propose a sit-down strike somewhere in the mountains, where the flowers are in bloom and the bees can bring the honey to you. From here on you draw your own conclusions.

If my friend who wants to know about homestead land in Orange County—if any—will write to Paul Witter, Land Commissioner for Southern California, Arizona and Nevada, headquarters federal building, in Los Angeles, and at home in Santa Ana every evening, he can find out. I would write Paul myself, but my inquiring friend neglected to supply the postage.

I don't see why just as soon as the sun comes out a housewife has to put on a dusting cap, start the vacuum sweeper, throw the rugs out of the house and start moving furniture. Doggone it, the winter isn't over, and you can't tell when Floyd Young is going to advise more snudge.

Correspondent writes that he would like to submit an article about the seam on ladies' hose and how to wear it, but is afraid the matter is too personal, and he has some doubts about its propriety. Say, you old antique, haven't you ever heard about Sally Rand, who doesn't wear stockings, and she who do not? I believe I get the idea. He thinks the seams should be what they seam, and not run around from the heel to the knee. Stop me, if you think I'm wrong.

This horse racing business is interesting. Race fans going over the entry list selecting favorites. An observer, more interested in "the flow" than the horse and start, looks over the shoulders of those concerned: "Put $2 on the nose on Omega."

I had expected to be in Los Angeles today, not that I am overly fond of Los Angeles, but that is the place where they hold an Iowa picnic. Either Lincoln park was too wet or the Iowa picnic took most opposition to the Santa Anita races, and the picnic was postponed. Why, I even saw Joan Maloney's interest in the Iowa picnic when I told him Harvey Ingham of the old Iles Moines Register was to be present. Dan and Harvey swapped newspaper experiences together in Iowa when they grew tall corn every year. Now the crop is intermittent due to some atmospheric alterations in the climate. Well, as Sam Hays says, I'll see next Saturday.
